2 Policemen Wounded By Bank Bandits

2 Robbers Give Up Following $27,000 Pittsburgh Holdup

Patrolmen Anthony Paga, 30, and Robert W. Thompson, 26, were shot Thursday in the city's West End section shortly after the bank holdup.

Both underwent surgery. Paga was reported critical with a back wound and Thompson serious with an abdominal wound.

One of the bandits, Joseph Gaito, 29, surrendered after being wounded in the hip. His companion Eddie Kern, 50, gave up shortly after Gaito. He was not hurt.

Four other policemen collapsed of heat exhaustion during the chase over a wooded, hilly area about five miles from midtown.

Minutes after the holdup, police spotted the getaway car and roared after it. The gunmen abandoned the auto and fled into the hills.

Hundreds of police quickly assembled with riot guns, walkie-talkies, dogs and tear gas. Two helicopters were used to direct the manhunt from the air.

The officers crouched behind cars and cement abutments, peppering the hillside with shots. The gunmen fired down from high on the hillside, holding officers off for more than a half hour.

The money in a green canvas bag was found beneath a log. Next to it was a cocked revolver.

Gaito limped out of the wooded area with his hands up, and cried: "Don't shoot—I'm hit." Kearns gave up eight minutes later.

Gaito was taken to a hospital where he told officers that a third man had driven the getaway car.

In 1945, Gaito shot a Shaler Twp. policeman. He and his brother Frank are charged in the shooting of policeman Gregory Scorzacave Jr. in March of this year. The officer surprised Gaito in the officer's home.

The gunmen, entered the bank at 2:30 p. m. One herded several customers and four bank employes into a corner; the other stood at the door.

WOUNDED ROBBER QUESTIONED. Joseph Gaito, one of two bank robbers captured Thursday afternoon, is questioned by a Pittsburgh police officer after he surrendered. Gaito gave up after he was shot in the leg in a running gun battle with police. (UPI Telephoto)

Beaver Man Kills Father With 2 Guns

Shooting Occurs As Victim Beats Wife In New Galilee Home

A 22-year-old New Galilee R. D. 1 man is in Beaver County Jail today, waiting a hearing on a murder charge after allegedly shooting his father to death Thursday at 5 p. m. for beating his mother, Beaver County authorities said. Apparently, two guns were used.

Clarence M. Swogger Jr., 22, was arraigned last night before Justice of the Peace John Bell of Monaca. A hearing remains to be set.

The Rochester Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said that Swogger fired more than a dozen bullets from a .22-caliber rifle into his father.

According to Dr. Thomas Todd, Beaver County coroner, who performed an autopsy last night at the Beaver County Morgue, Swogger also used a .22-caliber pistol in the fatal barrage.

The coroner said the shooting took place in the first-floor bedroom of the Swogger home.

Following the shooting, the younger Swogger called the Rochester barracks, changed clothes and waited for police.

The victim was a Pinkerton plant guard at the Mathews Conveyor Co. of Ellwood City.

Private funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at the Lutton Funeral Home in Beaver Falls.

Lloyd Hopes To Salvage Summit Talks

GENEVA (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd appeared today to be making a last-ditch fight to salvage a summit meeting from the Big Four foreign ministers conference.

His strategy was to try to get Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to abandon insistence on new recognition for Communist East Germany and concentrate instead on working out an agreement to end the Soviet threat to West Berlin.

All three Western ministers agreed to this strategy. But Lloyd alone seemed to believe it had some real chance of success.

Gromyko was willing to at least talk about Berlin problems apart from East Germany. The Big Four accordingly scheduled another secret luncheon session today to seek progress on issues directly involved in a Berlin truce.

With the conference's eighth week nearing an end, Lloyd took a far more positive view of achievements to date than Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan also said he still thought the foreign ministers conference might be successful, and that the ministers then would arrange a summit meeting.

Among other Western delegations here the impression was that Macmillan still urgently wants a summit session, perhaps far more than Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and that Lloyd's task is to achieve it if possible within the major limits of Allied policy.

Legislature's All Ready For Adjournment

Senate Finally OK's Compensation And School Funds Bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Legislature, after more than 6½ months of high-octane, pressure-cooker sessions, is planning to call it quits today.

It's about time, Statehouse observers agreed.

Tempers have worn tissuepaper thin. Too many people are mad at too many people.

Speaking of tissue, a roll of same came flying out of the House gallery when the presiding officer called for reading of a message from the Senate. The tissue tosser is a House member.

And speaking of high-octane, the Senate blew up for a while in a super - heated debate over the hotly controversial workmen's compensation bill.

But when the day, night—and part of the morning—had ended, the Senate had passed two of the key bills of the session, measures which had blocked the path to the end of working sessions.

The big bills, both previously approved by the House in somewhat different forms, increase workmen's compensation benefits and provide for distribution of about 21 million dollars in extra school subsidy money.

The House, also ready and willing to end the 103rd General Assembly on its 114th legislative day, probably will agree in the Senate amendments with all decent haste.

The Senate vote on the bill to increase benefits for injured workers was 31-0, but Republicans, in protest against what they called inadequacy, cut the margin on the school bill back to 23-8.

In other major actions as the Legislature made the final sprint toward the adjournment wire:

The House killed a resolution to set up what the Republicans said they feared might be a propaganda sounding board for Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's opposition to capital punishment. The resolution called for a committee made up of six legislators and five members appointed by the governor to study the capital punishment issue.

The Senate accepted a conference committee report recommending that the fee for auto license tags be increased from the present $10 to $13, effective March 1, 1961. The House has not yet acted on the report.

Socialite, 21, Turns Up Safe After Kidnap

CHICAGO (AP) — A young New Jersey socialite, missing since Wednesday, turned up in a Chicago lake front park today and told police she had been kidnaped in Newark, terrorized for two days and then dumped by two toughs.

Miss Jacqueline Gay Hart, 21-year-old daughter of an executive vice president of Colgate-Palmolive Co., ran sobbing to a parked police car and cried: "Where am I, where am I?"

Policeman Jack Blakeslee told her where she was and Miss Hart sobbed, "My name is Gay Hart; I want to call my dad in New Jersey." Another officer, James Meskell, joined Blakeslee.

Taken to the detective bureau, the distraught young woman—her arms bruised—gave a rambling, sometimes incoherent account of the two days since she bade farewell to her fiance, 25-year-old Stanley Gaines, at the airport in Newark and vanished.

The attractive Miss Hart, her blonde hair disheveled, told police a man shoved her into a car at the airport just as she was about to enter her own auto after leaving Gaines.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Squads of government fact - finders concentrated today on steel strike data to provide President Eisenhower with the most exhaustive survey of its kind ever made.

As the strike moved into its 10th day, periodic reports were being sent to the White House by federal experts as soon as they were completed.

The half million striking steelworkers already have lost nearly 100 million dollars in pay. About 10 million will be added to the wage loss each day the strike continues.

With about 90 per cent of the nation's steelmaking at a standstill, daily production losses were estimated at nearly 43 million dollars. Losses also were mounting in allied fields where an estimated 45,500 workers have been furloughed.

Ex-Special Officer Will Serve 1-15

Starts Pen Term For Smith & Phillips Co. Store Entry Of 1952

Dallas E. Bishop, onetime city special officer, was conveyed this morning to the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus to begin serving a term for burglary after the Ohio Supreme Court rejected his move to appeal the conviction.

Bishop, 42 - year - old handyman from Salineville, was taken into custody Thursday afternoon on a capias writ issued by County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw when advised of the high court's action.

Bishop was taken into custody yesterday afternoon at Salineville by Chief Deputy Sheriff James Miller. He was held at the County Jail overnight and left this morning at 9:45 for Columbus in the custody of Deputies Harold Gray and Russell Biggins.

He was convicted May 16, 1958, by a Common Pleas jury for the breaking and entering of the Smith & Phillips Co. store in 1952 — one of nine indictments handed down in 1956 against seven city police officers.

The 7th District Court of Appeals later affirmed the conviction after Bishop appealed, and the Supreme Court rejected a notice of appeal because it had not been filed properly.

Bishop was sentenced to 1-15 years for entering the Washington St. store. He was linked by trial evidence that a radio stolen from the store was recovered at the home of a Midland girlfriend.

Shortly after his arrest in 1956 Bishop wrote a 12-page statement of his activities between 1950 and 1955 which implicated other officers in various burglaries throughout the city.

At the 1956 arraignment for the Smith & Phillips entering and another at the Berman Lumber Co., Bishop pleaded innocent. A few days later, however, he pleaded guilty, and was a state's witness at the trial of Ira Cunningham, former officer, and Jerry Raimond, another ex-special officer, also charged with the Berman entering.

On the witness stand, he repudiated the statement and denied he

French Wage Big Offensive

Press Reserve Units Into Algerian War

ALGIERS (AP) — The French army is waging a crucial offensive of the 4½-year-old Algerian war.

All available reserves have been thrown into the massive, forest-covered Grande Kabylie Mountains east of Algiers, the strongest bastion of the Moslem nationalist rebellion against French rule in Algeria.

French troops began the assault Wednesday, striking simultaneously from the ground, air and sea. Gen. Maurice Challe, supreme commander in Algeria, is commanding the operation personally.

So far there has been no word on how the operation is going. But staff officers say the action will continue for many weeks, if not months.

The French general staff believes the future of the Algerian war depends largely on the results of the Kabylie offensive.

The attack comes less than two months before the fall session of the United Nations, which is likely to discuss the Algerian problem. Army sources said the French will make a major effort to smash or considerably reduce rebel military resistance before the debate starts.

An estimated 6,000 armed nationalists are entrenched in the Grande Kabylie zone, a rugged range starting less than 50 miles east of Algiers and continuing for about 150 miles parallel to the coast.

The 7th District Court of Appeals later affirmed the conviction after Bishop appealed, and the Supreme Court rejected a notice of appeal because it had not been filed properly.

Bishop was sentenced to 1-15 years for entering the Washington St. store. He was linked by trial evidence that a radio stolen from the store was recovered at the home of a Midland girlfriend.

Shortly after his arrest in 1956 Bishop wrote a 12-page statement of his activities between 1950 and 1955 which implicated other officers in various burglaries throughout the city.

At the 1956 arraignment for the Smith & Phillips entering and another at the Berman Lumber Co., Bishop pleaded innocent. A few days later, however, he pleaded guilty, and was a state's witness at the trial of Ira Cunningham, former officer, and Jerry Raimond, another ex-special officer, also charged with the Berman entering.

On the witness stand, he repudiated the statement and denied he

French Wage Big Offensive

Press Reserve Units Into Algerian War

ALGIERS (AP) — The French army is waging a crucial offensive of the 4½-year-old Algerian war.

All available reserves have been thrown into the massive, forest-covered Grande Kabylie Mountains east of Algiers, the strongest bastion of the Moslem nationalist rebellion against French rule in Algeria.

French troops began the assault Wednesday, striking simultaneously from the ground, air and sea. Gen. Maurice Challe, supreme commander in Algeria, is commanding the operation personally.

So far there has been no word on how the operation is going. But staff officers say the action will continue for many weeks, if not months.

The French general staff believes the future of the Algerian war depends largely on the results of the Kabylie offensive.

The attack comes less than two months before the fall session of the United Nations, which is likely to discuss the Algerian problem. Army sources said the French will make a major effort to smash or considerably reduce rebel military resistance before the debate starts.

An estimated 6,000 armed nationalists are entrenched in the Grande Kabylie zone, a rugged range starting less than 50 miles east of Algiers and continuing for about 150 miles parallel to the coast.

Joseph F. Marsh Named Concord College President

CHARLESTON (AP) — Reorganization of the State Department of Education will be outlined for the State Board of Education during its next meeting Sept. 21-22.

The board noted that School Supt. R. Virgil Rohrbough will appear before it when it finished yesterday a two - day meeting. The consideration of preliminary plans for a new science building at West Liberty State College was postponed until the next meeting because of some changes being made to bring down the cost.

Probably the most important happening of the board meeting was the appointment of youthful Joseph F. Marsh as Concord College president. Marsh, 34 - year-old assistant professor of economics at Dartmouth College, will become head of the Mercer County college Aug. 1.

President Stewart Smith of Marshall College will have a pay raise, if the board has its way. Subject to approval by the Board of Public Works, Smith was voted a raise of from $14,350 a year to $15,000 by the education panel. The action would be retroactive to July 1.

Board Secretary H. K. Baer was instructed to draft a resolution on the problem of staff "raiding" among the nine colleges that come under the board's administration.

Raymond Brewster, board member from Huntington, moved that a resolution be prepared because unrestrained job switching could cause "damage."

The Conservation Department was given 2½ acres of land by the board as a construction site for an eastern division headquarters. The piece of land made available is located at Romney's Deaf and Blind Schools.

Marsh will succeed Virgil Stewart, who resigned at Concord this month. Stewart succeeded Marsh's father, J. Frank Marsh Sr., who is dead. The senior Marsh served at Concord from 1929 to 1946.

The newly appointed Concord president taught at Dartmouth, his alma mater, the past seven years, teaching mostly labor economics more recently.

The long stay in the Ivy League has told on Marsh. He could be called a home town boy with an Ivy League manner. Marsh's salary will be $10,500 a year and he will reside in a home on the campus.

Six other applicants for the position included President W. B. Axtell of West Virginia Tech and D. Banks Wilburn, dean of the Marshall College Teachers College.

Keith Executed 25 Years After He Was Condemned

OSSINING, N. Y. (AP)—Leroy Keith died Thursday night in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair, 25 years after he was first condemned to death.

The death sentence a quarter century ago was in Ohio.

Keith, 52, a Negro, was executed for the slaying of taxi driver David Suro, 49, in New York City's Bronx three years ago.

On entering the death chamber, Keith shook hands with one of the guards and was strapped into the chair. He said he wished to make a statement.

"Sooner or later we all come to justice," he said. "I was disappointed in Gov. Rockefeller." his failure to win another reprieve from New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Five previous dates with the electric chair were nullified by stays or reprieves.

But Keith's long run of luck ended Monday when two U. S. Supreme Court justices denied him a further stay.

For his last meal, Keith chose steak, chocolate ice cream and strawberry shortcake. He had been in the Death House nearly a year and a half, and he never had a visitor.

Keith was first condemned to death on Nov. 26, 1934, for the slaying of Fred Griest, 52, a Warren, Ohio, steelworker, during a car theft.

He won a new trial, was convicted and condemned to death a second time. When the second conviction was set aside, he was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was paroled in 1956.

Five months later, he shot Suro to death. He wanted Suro's taxi for a holdup. He heard his third death sentence Jan. 28, 1958.

Keith also was wanted in Akron, Ohio, for the slaying of Coburn Von Gunten, a business executive, in 1956, during his brief parole period.

Education Group In Hancock Names Conference Delegates

Delegates to the West Virginia Education Association work conference Sunday until Wednesday at Camp Caesar were named at a special meeting of the Hancock County Education Association executive council Thursday evening at New Cumberland High School.

They include Miss Betty Buben, Mrs. Virginia Vincent, Joseph Endry, president of the county association, Dr. Dale Williams, president of the Board of Education, and Edwin Flowers.

Supt. Robert Hall spoke on plans for the coming term, which will begin Aug. 31 and end May 27.

The administration is attempting to provide a full 176 days of instruction for pupils. There also will be 4 holidays — Labor Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving Day and May 10 primary election.

A pre-school workshop is scheduled starting Aug. 24 and teachers will be paid for the week.

Three days will be given to countywide meetings at which school finances and other problems will be discussed to give teachers background information. The other two days teachers will be under the supervision of their respective principals.

If finances permit, a similar workshop will be held after school closes to allow teachers to complete their administrative work. Teachers' salaries will be spread over a 10-month period with checks being distributed on the 15th of each month starting in September.

A West Virginia Education Association convention in Parkersburg Oct. 26-27 has been deleted from the calendar, Hall said. Teachers will not be paid and there will be no school. In the past, teachers have received their pay if they attended the convention.

Robert Lindsay, assistant superintendent, announced plans for the workshop to be held in the New Cumberland High School auditorium. Phares Reeder will speak on school finance the first day. The instructional program will be the theme the second day with Dr. Arthur W. Foshay, president - elect of the AASCD, John St. Clair, assistant state superintendent of schools, and Dean Duncan of West Virginia University as speakers.

On the third day, a movie, "How Good Are Our Schools?" will be screened. There will be a review of the reading workshop held in June, and group meetings will be held.

Joseph Endry, president, presided, and Mrs. Betty Shaw opened the meeting with a prayer. Next meeting will be announced.

To Move Headquarters

NILES, Ohio (AP)—Headquarters of the General Electric Co.'s Conduit Products Division will be moved here from Bridgeport, Conn. This was announced Thursday by company officials, who said the move would affect at least 25 top executives and that an additional 25 persons would be hired for clerical positions.

Murder Link Seen

'Tiger Hunter' Killer?

NOTE BANDAGES. George P. Geiger, 27, of near Irwin, Pa., is led into the Marion County Jail by Patrol Officers R. D. Flemming after the suspect's capture in the slaying of his ex-father-in-law at Jeannette, Pa. Geiger may have stopped in the vicinity of West Point en route to Marion.

Convinced the West Point district "tiger hunter" who stopped at her house Wednesday morning was the weary and frightened George Geiger, Pennsylvania slayer, Mrs. Mabel Smith of Route 45 near West Point got some restful sleep Thursday night.

Mrs. Smith telephoned Hardin County authorities last night in an effort to determine whether the captured killer was the same bewildered man who halted for a short time at her home Wednesday morning, claiming to be hunting tigers.

Mrs. Smith said this morning she was told by Deputy Sheriff James Baldridge — who arrested Geiger near Marion on traffic charges unaware he was sought by police in Pennsylvania — that her description matched that of the slayer, adding "You have nothing more to worry about."

Columbiana County deputies had searched the district Wednesday in hopes of locating the visitor at her home, but found only other residents who had also seen him. The "hunter" was let in the Smith home by her nephew, Larry Lucas, of Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Smith said she called Baldridge after a picture of Geiger on a television program revealed he had bandages on the left side of his face. Her first description of her visitor included a report of such bandages.

She said she had been worried that the visitor would return, and was greatly reassured by Deputy Baldridge's reply.

U.S. Wheat Control Program Will Be Continued In 1960

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal crop control program that has permitted accumulation of a vast surplus of wheat will be continued for this crop in 1960.

Complete unofficial returns from a grower referendum Thursday gave 160,718 for the program and 38,522 against.

This was a favorable majority of 80.7 per cent. It was far in excess of the necessary two-thirds, but short of the 84 per cent margin given the program in a referendum a year ago.

The balloting showed a general lack of interest among growers. Less than one-fourth of the eligible growers voted.

The results were not unexpected. Despite sharp criticism that has been directed at the program by the Eisenhower administration and many farm leaders because of its cost and its failure to prevent surpluses, growers had little choice in the balloting. They could take the criticized program with its relatively favorable price support machinery or vote for virtual withdrawal of that machinery.

The program embraces acreage allotments at the legal minimum of 55 million acres, marketing quotas based upon the allotment and price supports at the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity or not less than $1.77 a bushel.

By the time farmers start planting next year's crop this fall, the nation will have a reserve and surplus supply sufficient to meet its own domestic need for almost three years. The government has slightly more than three billion dollars invested in the big supply.

Legislature

The House accepted a conference committee report on a bill to increase the Racing Commission from four to five members. The Senate has not yet acted on the report.

The Senate, despite the House action Wednesday to override the governor's veto, voted to sustain DiSalle's objections to the so-called "milk bill," a measure which would have set up a dairy marketing division and would have prohibited sale of dairy products below cost.

The House passed and sent to a decidedly uncertain fate in the Senate a bill to provide congressional redistricting bill affecting the four districts in Cuyahoga County and northeastern Ohio's 11th District. The measure possibly could guarantee a solid Democratic delegation from the Cleveland area. By adding the southern tier of townships in Trumbull County to the 11th District, observers there said it would guarantee that the 11th District never again would elect a Republican congressman. The 19th District, under the proposal, would be made up of Mahoning County only, which is traditionally Democratic.

Senate Democrats said privately the redistricting bill has no chance of passage in this session. This echoed previous statements of the governor who has said the redistricting bill is quite low on his priority list.

The thin tempers and ill-feeling manifest themselves in Thursday's Senate sessions as lawmakers survived still another marathon day in this, the longest regular legislative session in at least a quarter-century.

The big blowoff came in a parliamentary hassle during the debate on the workmen's compensation bill. Senate labor-minded liberals, who finally went down to defeat, wanted to vote item-by-item on an omnibus amendment offered by Sen. Fred Harter (D-Summit) to put the bill back in essentially the same shape as passed by the House.

Democratic conservatives, backed by Republicans, wanted a vote on the entire Harter amendment. Lt. Gov. John Donahey ruled the amendment could be divided in three parts. Sen. Fred L. Hoffman (R-Hamilton) appealed the ruling, although the vote never was announced, was overridden 19-12.

Obviously stalling for time, those who wanted the amendment divided asked for a continuation of the rollcall although only two senators were absent, Sen. Tennyson Guyer (R-Hancock) on his way to California and Sen. Stephen Olenick (D-Mahoning) in Reading, Pa., for a lodge meeting.

Then came a demand for a "call of the Senate," a maneuver under which the Senate can compel a member to appear in the chamber. When a call of the Senate is in progress, no other business can be transacted.

With the ship of the state dead in the water, Senate Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas) moved for adjournment until noon today. That seemed to end the matter.

But, in about 20 minutes, King marched back through the chamber filled with fuming legislators, lobbyists and newsmen and moved to rescind the adjournment motion—and expunge it from the record.

They said it couldn't be done—to adjourn until a time more than 18 hours later, and still start a session in 20 minutes—but they did it.

The mixup was marked by some personal animosity between Donahey and Sen. Ross Pepple (R-Allen). Pepple tried to get recognition before the ill-fated adjournment to move that further proceedings under the call of the Senate be dispensed with, but Donahey refused to recognize him.

Later, after both the workmen's compensation and school bills had been passed, Pepple early today filed a protest against Donahey's refusal to recognize his right to speak during the hot moments of dispute.

Pepple's protest quoted Donahey as saying he didn't "give a damn" about the Senate rules. Donahey later denied he made such a statement.

Strike

settlement? Not very bright, according to Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

"I still see no early or easy settlement," Finnegan told reporters. The fact that both sides will again sit down together does not imply any change in the position of either, he said.

But he added: "We feel we now have a better orientation on the differences between the two sides."

Contractors Warned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Highway Department has told 82 lagging contractors to catch up on construction projects or lose the opportunity to bid on future state contracts. Contractors must periodically demonstrate that they are able to do the work adequately before being allowed to bid, the department pointed out.

Education Group In Hancock Names Conference Delegates

Delegates to the West Virginia Education Association work conference Sunday until Wednesday at Camp Caesar were named at a special meeting of the Hancock County Education Association executive council Thursday evening at New Cumberland High School.

They include Miss Betty Buben, Mrs. Virginia Vincent, Joseph Endry, president of the county association, Dr. Dale Williams, president of the Board of Education, and Edwin Flowers.

Supt. Robert Hall spoke on plans for the coming term, which will begin Aug. 31 and end May 27.

The administration is attempting to provide a full 176 days of instruction for pupils. There also will be 4 holidays — Labor Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving Day and May 10 primary election.

A pre-school workshop is scheduled starting Aug. 24 and teachers will be paid for the week.

Three days will be given to countywide meetings at which school finances and other problems will be discussed to give teachers background information. The other two days teachers will be under the supervision of their respective principals.

If finances permit, a similar workshop will be held after school closes to allow teachers to complete their administrative work. Teachers' salaries will be spread over a 10-month period with checks being distributed on the 15th of each month starting in September.

A West Virginia Education Association convention in Parkersburg Oct. 26-27 has been deleted from the calendar, Hall said. Teachers will not be paid and there will be no school. In the past, teachers have received their pay if they attended the convention.

Robert Lindsay, assistant superintendent, announced plans for the workshop to be held in the New Cumberland High School auditorium. Phares Reeder will speak on school finance the first day. The instructional program will be the theme the second day with Dr. Arthur W. Foshay, president - elect of the AASCD, John St. Clair, assistant state superintendent of schools, and Dean Duncan of West Virginia University as speakers.

On the third day, a movie, "How Good Are Our Schools?" will be screened. There will be a review of the reading workshop held in June, and group meetings will be held.

Joseph Endry, president, presided, and Mrs. Betty Shaw opened the meeting with a prayer. Next meeting will be announced.

To Move Headquarters

NILES, Ohio (AP)—Headquarters of the General Electric Co.'s Conduit Products Division will be moved here from Bridgeport, Conn. This was announced Thursday by company officials, who said the move would affect at least 25 top executives and that an additional 25 persons would be hired for clerical positions.

Murder Link Seen

'Tiger Hunter' Killer?

NOTE BANDAGES. George P. Geiger, 27, of near Irwin, Pa., is led into the Marion County Jail by Patrol Officers R. D. Flemming after the suspect's capture in the slaying of his ex-father-in-law at Jeannette, Pa. Geiger may have stopped in the vicinity of West Point en route to Marion.

Convinced the West Point district "tiger hunter" who stopped at her house Wednesday morning was the weary and frightened George Geiger, Pennsylvania slayer, Mrs. Mabel Smith of Route 45 near West Point got some restful sleep Thursday night.

Mrs. Smith telephoned Hardin County authorities last night in an effort to determine whether the captured killer was the same bewildered man who halted for a short time at her home Wednesday morning, claiming to be hunting tigers.

Mrs. Smith said this morning she was told by Deputy Sheriff James Baldridge — who arrested Geiger near Marion on traffic charges unaware he was sought by police in Pennsylvania — that her description matched that of the slayer, adding "You have nothing more to worry about."

Columbiana County deputies had searched the district Wednesday in hopes of locating the visitor at her home, but found only other residents who had also seen him. The "hunter" was let in the Smith home by her nephew, Larry Lucas, of Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Smith said she called Baldridge after a picture of Geiger on a television program revealed he had bandages on the left side of his face. Her first description of her visitor included a report of such bandages.

She said she had been worried that the visitor would return, and was greatly reassured by Deputy Baldridge's reply.

settlement? Not very bright, according to Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

"I still see no early or easy settlement," Finnegan told reporters. The fact that both sides will again sit down together does not imply any change in the position of either, he said.

But he added: "We feel we now have a better orientation on the differences between the two sides."

Contractors Warned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Highway Department has told 82 lagging contractors to catch up on construction projects or lose the opportunity to bid on future state contracts. Contractors must periodically demonstrate that they are able to do the work adequately before being allowed to bid, the department pointed out.

U.S. Wheat Control Program Will Be Continued In 1960

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal crop control program that has permitted accumulation of a vast surplus of wheat will be continued for this crop in 1960.

This was a favorable majority of 80.7 per cent. It was far in excess of the necessary two-thirds, but short of the 84 per cent margin given the program in a referendum a year ago.

The balloting showed a general lack of interest among growers. Less than one-fourth of the eligible growers voted.

The results were not unexpected. Despite sharp criticism that has been directed at the program by the Eisenhower administration and many farm leaders because of its cost and its failure to prevent surpluses, growers had little choice in the balloting. They could take the criticized program with its relatively favorable price support machinery or vote for virtual withdrawal of that machinery.

The program embraces acreage allotments at the legal minimum of 55 million acres, marketing quotas based upon the allotment and price supports at the legal minimum of 75 per cent of parity or not less than $1.77 a bushel.

By the time farmers start planting next year's crop this fall, the nation will have a reserve and surplus supply sufficient to meet its own domestic need for almost three years. The government has slightly more than three billion dollars invested in the big supply.

Legislature

The House accepted a conference committee report on a bill to increase the Racing Commission from four to five members. The Senate has not yet acted on the report.

The Senate, despite the House action Wednesday to override the governor's veto, voted to sustain DiSalle's objections to the so-called "milk bill," a measure which would have set up a dairy marketing division and would have prohibited sale of dairy products below cost.

The House passed and sent to a decidedly uncertain fate in the Senate a bill to provide congressional redistricting bill affecting the four districts in Cuyahoga County and northeastern Ohio's 11th District. The measure possibly could guarantee a solid Democratic delegation from the Cleveland area. By adding the southern tier of townships in Trumbull County to the 11th District, observers there said it would guarantee that the 11th District never again would elect a Republican congressman. The 19th District, under the proposal, would be made up of Mahoning County only, which is traditionally Democratic.

Senate Democrats said privately the redistricting bill has no chance of passage in this session. This echoed previous statements of the governor who has said the redistricting bill is quite low on his priority list.

The thin tempers and ill-feeling manifest themselves in Thursday's Senate sessions as lawmakers survived still another marathon day in this, the longest regular legislative session in at least a quarter-century.

The big blowoff came in a parliamentary hassle during the debate on the workmen's compensation bill. Senate labor-minded liberals, who finally went down to defeat, wanted to vote item-by-item on an omnibus amendment offered by Sen. Fred Harter (D-Summit) to put the bill back in essentially the same shape as passed by the House.

Democratic conservatives, backed by Republicans, wanted a vote on the entire Harter amendment. Lt. Gov. John Donahey ruled the amendment could be divided in three parts. Sen. Fred L. Hoffman (R-Hamilton) appealed the ruling, although the vote never was announced, was overridden 19-12.

Obviously stalling for time, those who wanted the amendment divided asked for a continuation of the rollcall although only two senators were absent, Sen. Tennyson Guyer (R-Hancock) on his way to California and Sen. Stephen Olenick (D-Mahoning) in Reading, Pa., for a lodge meeting.

Then came a demand for a "call of the Senate," a maneuver under which the Senate can compel a member to appear in the chamber. When a call of the Senate is in progress, no other business can be transacted.

With the ship of the state dead in the water, Senate Majority Leader Frank W. King (D-Lucas) moved for adjournment until noon today. That seemed to end the matter.

But, in about 20 minutes, King marched back through the chamber filled with fuming legislators, lobbyists and newsmen and moved to rescind the adjournment motion—and expunge it from the record.

They said it couldn't be done—to adjourn until a time more than 18 hours later, and still start a session in 20 minutes—but they did it.

The mixup was marked by some personal animosity between Donahey and Sen. Ross Pepple (R-Allen). Pepple tried to get recognition before the ill-fated adjournment to move that further proceedings under the call of the Senate be dispensed with, but Donahey refused to recognize him.

Later, after both the workmen's compensation and school bills had been passed, Pepple early today filed a protest against Donahey's refusal to recognize his right to speak during the hot moments of dispute.

Pepple's protest quoted Donahey as saying he didn't "give a damn" about the Senate rules. Donahey later denied he made such a statement.

Spoiled Child Doesn't Dread The Rod

Long after the laws passed by the 1959 session of the Ohio Legislature have been forgotten, or repealed, the plaintive cry of House Speaker James A. Lantz against the AFL-CIO will be remembered.

Here was the No. 1 legislative leader of a top - heavy Democratic majority presumably friendly to organized labor summing up his feelings after six frustrating months of trying to please Ohio unionists. A Democratic governor, Michael V. DiSalle, had been bitterly attacked for having a mind of his own about the unions' demands. Speaker Lantz had been castigated for not falling dead on the AFL-CIO's command.

"The Ohio AFL-CIO . . . has once again demonstrated its 'What have you done for me recently?' attitude towards those they sometimes call friends," said Lantz. He was referring to criticism of himself and other Democrats who had stood for moderation in revising the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Act.

"In their eagerness to find whipping boys for the reductions which they brought upon themselves by demanding fantastic increases in the first instance, they have forgotten the many rural Democrats who supported labor's proposal for supplemental unemployment benefits; who gave them one of the most liberal unemployment compensation laws in the country, and who provided 20 per cent increase in workman's compensation benefits," Lantz recounted.

Then he came to this conclusion: "It may be that these Democrats will have benefited by this attack if only because it has forcefully brought home the fact that the friendship of the labor lasts only until their first request is denied."

IN WASHINGTON, at this instant, groundwork is being laid in the headquarters of the Teamsters Union to throw money and influence against every member of Congress who has dared to look cross-eyed at any of the antics associated with James R. Hoffa.

In every union conference and conclave the names of legislators and officials who have dared to speak their minds against positions assumed by union leaders are being filed for future revenge.

It is nothing new to learn that politics makes strange bedfellows but no enduring friendships. But until the No. 1 Democrat in the Ohio House of Representatives raised his voice in anguish, there actually were Democrats who must have thought they had bought the AFL-CIO's undying friendship with a few favors in return for some campaign support last fall.

And in Washington, until the union labor steamroller began to squeeze the juice out of a vital antiracketeering proposal, there must have been naive Democrats who thought they could count on their "friends in labor" to take them off the hook in a growing scandal over unionism's high-handed defiance of public opinion and the people's representatives and senators.

THE LABOR UNIONS have good reason to think they are untouchable; they have not been touched since the Taft-Hartley revision of the original Wagner Act reminded them they had responsibilities as well as rights. They never have forgiven the legislators who voted against them.

They are as much like legislative spoiled children as the trusts and monopolies had become by the beginning of the 19th century. They think all legislators and public oficials should do their bidding. They do not dread the rod because they do not know what it feels like — and they have no intention of finding out what it feels like. They are too big to be disciplined, they say. The rod is in their hands now.

In 1960 they intend to bring it down hard on the flinching back of every office-seeker who ever crossed them or questioned their right to run things their own way and no questions asked.

Friend, what have you done for me recently?

Now We Must Save Rail Commuters

Every motorist in the United States has a stake in a special session of the New Jersey Legislature that begins next Monday.

It will consider a proposal by New Jersey Gov. Robert B. Meyner to divert surplus income from the motorist-supported New Jersey Turnpike to improve railroad service and rail equipment. The object is to save some 100,000 rail commuters who go back and forth between New Jersey and New York City.

But before every motorist who uses a toll road splits the fee between the service he uses and some service he never expects to use there is a question no one ever answers when it's time to save rail commuters in New Jersey, in New York, in Illinois, in Cleveland, Ohio, where federal grants have been used to build rail lines, or anywhere else.

What is the commuter doing to save himself?

And if he doesn't want to save himself, why should he be saved?

Railroad commuter service has gone to pot because the people who use it refuse to pay what it costs. Unlike the auto user, who grins and bears ever-increasing taxes on everything he uses, plus a penalty for inflation, the railroad user on short-haul service squawks at every mention of a fare increase. It is he who has starved the commuter railroads, not anyone else.

Yet, when railroad management says it has had a bellyful and asks permission to discontinue further service on impossible terms, there is a great halloo about saving the commuter. After totaling up the cost of running a car, most motorists would be heartily in favor of letting the commuter seek his salvation where they are finding theirs — in paying what the traffic costs.

If that were to mean that some of the country's more over-congested cities already depending on public assistance to keep themselves a safe distance ahead of galloping decay might have to quit becoming more congested there wouldn't be a tear shed anywhere.

An Appeal For Help

The Columbiana County Retarded Children's Council will launch next week its first concentrated drive for funds with which to operate its current two special classes and to expand its program to help mentally-retarded youngsters.

Decorated containers which will be placed in the various business establishments are aptly called "Wells of Hope" since it is from these containers and a mail solicitation that will come the donations upon which the hopes of the retarded children rest to a considerable degree.

The council asks not only money for these young people. It also seeks understanding and respect for their role in society and for their efforts to achieve self - sufficiency and responsibility.

A contribution to the campaign will symbolize not only a wish for success, but will serve as a salute to a modern attitude toward an ancient problem.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Carrying out this writer's semiannual interviews with the Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap, we contacted him and found he, too, has troubles. "Inflation has hurt me," he said. "The cost of holes in mousetraps has gone up 80 per cent.

I decided to use fewer holes but ran into labor disputes. The hole cutters demanded more holes, not fewer. They claimed that a man had to have the right to cut twice as many holes as in the old days in order to keep employment at high levels."

"Was there a strike?" we asked. "The mousetrap crisis is before federal mediators," he replied. "If there's a strike by the hole cutters, the spring makers and cheese hook boys will go out in sympathy. I've been bothered by jurisdictional issues, too. My mousetrap painters demanded that they must be consulted by the hole cutters on the size of all holes."

"Any merger troubles?" we asked.

"Yeah. I wanted to keep abreast of the trend, so I thought of merging with National Catnip, Federated Cheese Products, Inc., Universal Moth Killer and North American Roach Exterminator. But some of my crazy directors wanted to buy into U.S. Buffalo Hunts and Canadian Moose Enterprises. This was carrying diversification too far. You can't get a buffalo or moose into a mousetrap."

"Any fringe benefit disputes?"

"That's my real headache. What part of a mousetrap constitutes the fringe?" he asked.

"How do the mice stand on this point?" we inquired.

Weird Tension Grips South Africa

By Victor Riesel

DURBAN, South Africa

From these Indian Ocean docks the roads twist hot and dusty deep into Zululand. They cross the swift rail link to Portuguese Mozambique's big port. Over these roads I've driven in the newest cars. I've spoken to college educated Zulu chiefs. I've mixed with their people, garbed as you and I — in Western trousers. They use their spears only in grudge fights after beer drinking sprees.

Victor Riesel

Kids in the kraals out on the veldt were delighted to swing into the jubilation over the ceremonies during the "coronation" of Cyprian Ka Dini Zulu, Chief of All Chiefs. But they would rather swing to American jazz.

Yet there is an African "mystique"—a mysterious strange tension which hangs over you when you drive out of white areas. Some day this "mystique" will deaden these ports, paralyze the rail lines, immobilize the lower part of this continent. No one will know how it happened but suddenly the great stillness will be there.

THE NATIVES of this end of Africa simply will stop working. Twice, in one tiny corner, it happened here.

A few months ago, out on the piers a bit down from my hotel window, the Zulu longshoremen suddenly quit toting those bales.

They struck. But no strike had been called. They had no union. They had no leaders. No one could learn who timed this stoppage or who developed strategy.

One Zulu leader, Moses Mabhida, national vice president of the South African Congress of Trade Unions, told me that not even he or his colleagues could learn who led the 2,000 non-unionized Zulu dockwallopers. And Mabhida is of their own flesh and blood.

It could be that Moses Mabhida did not pierce the "mystique" because he is a city Zulu while the longshoremen were up-country tribesmen. But there was another man who should have known. He is the "induna."

"The "induna" is the voice of the tribal chief when the supreme leader is elsewhere. If the chief is up-country with his tribesmen he still is leader of all his people wherever they are — even on the Durban docks. If he isn't here to give orders to the boys away from the kraal, there is always an "induna," virtually unknown to the West.

There are group "indunas" and regional "indunas." The group "indunas" each cover age brackets. There is one for the "vukayibambe," the 17 to 35; another for the 35 to 45, etc. They are the voice of tribal authority away from home. Yet the "indunas" themselves did not know who ordered the strike or whether any one actually directed the men.

NO ONE KNEW, not even the "Special Branch," the government's intelligence service. Still 2,000 Zulus simply stopped working. They were not happy with the 14 cents a day raise they had just been handed.

They were fired. This meant going back up-country to Zululand's reserves. A month ago there was another "strike." Again 2,000 men were fired and new recruits were brought in from outlying tribes.

Hundreds of thousands of other Zulu workers have not yet struck in defiance of the South African police and their big Saracen tanks. But the tension grows tauter. The other day I covered a demonstration of Zulu wives in green shirts.

For two hours they sat silently on the steps of the City Hall. No signal was given but suddenly, silently they arose and walked away. Their husbands were at work — earning from $6.25 a week to $7.50. Of this they pay some 32 cents a day for bus fare. They live on half a loaf of bread a day, some milk, some kind of lemon or lime soda pop and meat once a week.

Some live in huts made of pieces of tin and cardboard. Some are luckier. They have found a big oil drum and cut it in half and slip under it at night. This is Cato Manor, five miles out up on the hill where they rioted and burned municipal property last month. Whatever that African "mystique" is, there is no mystery about what binds the Zulu millions together.

Was The Timing Bad?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Vice President Richard M. Nixon's good will Soviet visit has started off sticky and can get worse. If it does, President Eisenhower and the Senate will have to ask themselves if their timing was bad.

Nixon, whose gladhanding Latin-American tour a year ago was met with spit and stones, got a shocking reception Thursday just about the time he landed in Moscow and started shaking hands with all in sight.

Twenty miles away Premier Nikita Khrushchev, angered by a recent anti-Communist gesture of Eisenhower and the Senate, was deriding the United States and calling Nixon's visit part of a plan to embarrass the Soviet Union.

On July 6 the Senate, by voice vote and with little debate, passed a resolution calling on Eisenhower to proclaim the third week in every July as Captive Nations Week. Eisenhower issued the proclamation July 17.

This was the latest of many similar American reminders that the Soviet Union was holding the satellites in thralldom. It was supposed to serve several purposes:

To remind the satellite people the United States hasn't forgotten them; and to strengthen Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's hand in dealing with the Russians at Geneva on the Berlin problem.

How this could strengthen Herter's hand is hard to see. A Senate resolution on an old theme wasn't going to make the Russians weak-kneed. It was nothing more than a gesture.

And, since this country isn't going to war to free the satellites and there is no visible likelihood of their getting freedom otherwise, the only immediate result could have been expected: it irritated the Russians.

So, since Nixon's Soviet visit is billed as a good will tour whose climax is interviews with Kruschchev, the judgment behind the timing of this resolution and proclamation is open to question.

For this reason: When Nixon landed in Moscow it was in the middle of the Captive Nations Week as proclaimed by Eisenhower.

Khrushchev, who had just returned to Moscow himself from a trip to Poland about an hour before Nixon's plane touched down, hastened to address a Polish friendship meeting 20 miles from the Moscow airport.

He was in a savage mood. Whether this was due only to the proclamation or was part of a deliberately get - tough - with-America campaign he seems to be building up is not clear. But the proclamation gave him a good excuse to strike at the United States just as Nixon arrived in the Soviet Union.

He told the crowd Nixon was a representative of the "panic - stricken American imperialists" and said Nixon's trip was deliberately timed to coincide with a campaign against the Soviet Union.

The Senate and the Eisenhower administration both might have anticipated that—by letting Captive Nations Week coincide with the week of Nixon's arrival in Moscow — they might be giving the Russians a chance to embarrass him. And the Russians chose to react just that way.

Any of the year's 52 weeks could just as easily have been designated Captive Nations Week. Why, then, was the choice made of the very week that Nixon went to Russia? The answer seems to be: thoughtlessness all around and not deliberate timing.

The resolution was offered by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill), with Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) joining in.

Thursday night in the Senate Douglas was asked if the third week in July had been designated in his resolution so as to coincide with the arrival of Nixon in Moscow.

He said no, that the timing was "purely coincidental." Originally, he said, the resolution called for the week after the Fourth of July. This was changed, he said, after there was a delay in passing the resolution.

Mails Opened To Questionable Books

Is the way being opened to the widespread distribution of pornographic or obscene books and pictures in America? Judge Frederick van Pelt Bryan's decision just rendered in the U. S. District Court in New York, if sustained by a higher court would seem to deprive the Post Office Department of all of its power to keep filthy "literature" out of the mails.

David Lawrence

Judge Bryan may not have intended such a result, and his written opinion is couched in phrases of earnestness and sincerity, but he has nevertheless opened up a Pandora's box of troubles for the Post Office Department, whose officials have promptly decided to carry the matter to the Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of the United States.

Judge Bryan's argument is that morals have changed and people nowadays accept dirty books as "best sellers." From this, he reasons that, no matter how offensive even to "a substantial segment of the community," there is not right to bar such books because, after all, people do buy them and read them.

The court opinion says that the material in a book "is not to be judged by excerpts or individual passages but must be judged as a whole," and adds that there has been "general acceptance of the book throughout the country and nothing was shown to the contrary."

JUDGE BRYAN didn't reveal whether the critics had read the expurgated edition has been circulated for nearly 30 years. Certainly ever since the objectionable passages were eliminated, there was no way of judging what would have been said of the book by the critics if they had reviewed the complete edition.

Judge Bryan, in discussing the un-expurgated edition, which alone has been banned from the mails, says:

"It (the book) contains a number of passages describing sexual intercourse in great detail with complete candor and realism. Four-letter Anglo-Saxon words are used with some frequency.

"These passages and this language understandably will shock the sensitive minded. Be that as it may, these passages are relevant to the plot and to the development of the characters and of their lives. The language which shocks, except in a rare instance or two, is not inconsistent with character, situation or theme.

"The tests of obscenity are not whether the book or passages from it are in bad taste or shock or offend the sensibilities of an individual, or even of a substantial segment of the community.

"The statute does not purport to regulate the morals portrayed or the ideas expressed in a novel, whether or not they are contrary to the accepted moral code, nor could it constitutionally do so."

THIS IS a sweeping declaration which would seem to remove all obstacles to the wide distribution of pornographic books. Judge Bryan seems to think that the acquiescence of the public in the sale of dirty books in the past indicates that people do not object. He writes:

"In one best selling novel after another frank descriptions of the sex act and "four-letter" words appear with frequency. These trends appear in all media of public expression, in the kind of language used and the subjects discussed in polite society, in pictures, advertisements, and dress, and in other ways familiar to all.

"Much of what is now accepted would have shocked the community to the core a generation ago. Today such things are generally tolerated whether we approve or not."

Do the American people approve of dirty books and, if there is a trend of that kind in the community, could it mean that the authorities may have been remiss in failing heretofore to suppress such works?

Does it mean that, despite the large attendance at churches in America, the moral standards of the people of a generation ago are considered outmoded today? If this doctrine is correct, then it will be argued that the Ten Commandments can be brushed aside also as "old-fashioned."

JUDGE BRYAN seems to think that if a "reputable publisher" issues a book, it becomes "literary" and not "obscene," he says:

"A work of literature published and distributed through normal channels by a reputable publisher stands on quite a different footing from hard core pornography furtively sold for the purpose of profiting by the titillation of the dirtyminded."

Who is to determine whether a publisher's motive is circulating a sex novel is pure and untainted by any idea of "profiting by the titillation of the dirtyminded"?

The new federal court ruling plainly says the postmaster general has no such right and hints that maybe there is no such right to anybody else in government under the first Amendment to the Constitution. So it does appear as if the sky is the limit now on the sale and distribution through the mails of pornographic books and pictures. Since the court says so, this is today the "law of the land" until reversed either by a higher court or by a constitutional amendment.

Dear Nephew: Sorry to hear that yau spavined yourself temporarily making the turn into dog days, but there's nothing to beat enforced idleness. I use these interludes to catch up on my thinking.

I am too busy with my daily chores to do all the thinking I'd like to do, so I set aside weighty subjects until I can give them the attention they deserve.

The last time I had an idle hour, I decided we are paying a stiff price for the "fine old American custom" of jawing the umpire. What has been held up to us as one of our precious rights all of a sudden is turning into chaos.

Umpires are being jawed all over the place. Boos, jeers and catcalls are drowning out the national anthem.

That's the trouble with umpire-jawing — if it gets started it's hard to stop. We goofed up, in my opinion, when we made tin heroes out of mouthy characters in baseball who played to the cheap seats every chance they got by breathing defiantly into the faces of umpires.

It's no secret that some of these characters weren't even sore when they staged their act. They were phony all the way through —as phony, bless your heart, as some of the umpire-jawers who pull the same stunt at the expense of the United States Supreme Court, which is the head umpire of the whole setup.

We have raised the kids of this country to see something heroic and big-mannish about spouting off in the face of authority. Then we wonder why a lot of punks stick their grubby pusses into the faces of the police, their own parents, the courts and society in general. What did we expect?

I am not surprised when thugs hoodlums, plug-uglies, racketeers, goons and assorted scurvies show no respect for authority, because at the end of a long lifetime I can say I saw it coming.

We coaxed these creeps into believing no harm would befall them if they imitated what they had been brought up on — the derisive challenges traditional in our so-called "national game."

It turned out that the "national game" became more national than it was supposed to be. The real national game these days is to make monkeys out of umpires — to prove that the rowdy is the people's choice — to make things as tough as possible for all the "men in blue."

No one is immune to contempt.

It is a sign of weakness to show respect for constituted authority.

Consideration for the problems of the fellow responsible for keeping the game going is "un-American." The idea is to put tacks in his shoes and nettles in his bed, to poke fun at him and to demonstrate that in all ways the goon is his master and his superior.

We did it, all right. But now that we've proved it could be done we're not happy. When I see a picture of some ball-playing meathead jawing an umpire I think of all the meat-heads jawing Congress, the judiciary, the police and decent people in general. I want to reassure myself that they can't get away with it, but you know what?

They are getting away with it. It scares me stiff.

Spoiled Child Doesn't Dread The Rod

Long after the laws passed by the 1959 session of the Ohio Legislature have been forgotten, or repealed, the plaintive cry of House Speaker James A. Lantz against the AFL-CIO will be remembered.

Here was the No. 1 legislative leader of a top - heavy Democratic majority presumably friendly to organized labor summing up his feelings after six frustrating months of trying to please Ohio unionists. A Democratic governor, Michael V. DiSalle, had been bitterly attacked for having a mind of his own about the unions' demands. Speaker Lantz had been castigated for not falling dead on the AFL-CIO's command.

"The Ohio AFL-CIO . . . has once again demonstrated its 'What have you done for me recently?' attitude towards those they sometimes call friends," said Lantz. He was referring to criticism of himself and other Democrats who had stood for moderation in revising the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Act.

"In their eagerness to find whipping boys for the reductions which they brought upon themselves by demanding fantastic increases in the first instance, they have forgotten the many rural Democrats who supported labor's proposal for supplemental unemployment benefits; who gave them one of the most liberal unemployment compensation laws in the country, and who provided 20 per cent increase in workman's compensation benefits," Lantz recounted.

Then he came to this conclusion: "It may be that these Democrats will have benefited by this attack if only because it has forcefully brought home the fact that the friendship of the labor lasts only until their first request is denied."

IN WASHINGTON, at this instant, groundwork is being laid in the headquarters of the Teamsters Union to throw money and influence against every member of Congress who has dared to look cross-eyed at any of the antics associated with James R. Hoffa.

In every union conference and conclave the names of legislators and officials who have dared to speak their minds against positions assumed by union leaders are being filed for future revenge.

It is nothing new to learn that politics makes strange bedfellows but no enduring friendships. But until the No. 1 Democrat in the Ohio House of Representatives raised his voice in anguish, there actually were Democrats who must have thought they had bought the AFL-CIO's undying friendship with a few favors in return for some campaign support last fall.

And in Washington, until the union labor steamroller began to squeeze the juice out of a vital antiracketeering proposal, there must have been naive Democrats who thought they could count on their "friends in labor" to take them off the hook in a growing scandal over unionism's high-handed defiance of public opinion and the people's representatives and senators.

THE LABOR UNIONS have good reason to think they are untouchable; they have not been touched since the Taft-Hartley revision of the original Wagner Act reminded them they had responsibilities as well as rights. They never have forgiven the legislators who voted against them.

They are as much like legislative spoiled children as the trusts and monopolies had become by the beginning of the 19th century. They think all legislators and public oficials should do their bidding. They do not dread the rod because they do not know what it feels like — and they have no intention of finding out what it feels like. They are too big to be disciplined, they say. The rod is in their hands now.

In 1960 they intend to bring it down hard on the flinching back of every office-seeker who ever crossed them or questioned their right to run things their own way and no questions asked.

Friend, what have you done for me recently?

Now We Must Save Rail Commuters

Every motorist in the United States has a stake in a special session of the New Jersey Legislature that begins next Monday.

It will consider a proposal by New Jersey Gov. Robert B. Meyner to divert surplus income from the motorist-supported New Jersey Turnpike to improve railroad service and rail equipment. The object is to save some 100,000 rail commuters who go back and forth between New Jersey and New York City.

But before every motorist who uses a toll road splits the fee between the service he uses and some service he never expects to use there is a question no one ever answers when it's time to save rail commuters in New Jersey, in New York, in Illinois, in Cleveland, Ohio, where federal grants have been used to build rail lines, or anywhere else.

What is the commuter doing to save himself?

And if he doesn't want to save himself, why should he be saved?

Railroad commuter service has gone to pot because the people who use it refuse to pay what it costs. Unlike the auto user, who grins and bears ever-increasing taxes on everything he uses, plus a penalty for inflation, the railroad user on short-haul service squawks at every mention of a fare increase. It is he who has starved the commuter railroads, not anyone else.

Yet, when railroad management says it has had a bellyful and asks permission to discontinue further service on impossible terms, there is a great halloo about saving the commuter. After totaling up the cost of running a car, most motorists would be heartily in favor of letting the commuter seek his salvation where they are finding theirs — in paying what the traffic costs.

If that were to mean that some of the country's more over-congested cities already depending on public assistance to keep themselves a safe distance ahead of galloping decay might have to quit becoming more congested there wouldn't be a tear shed anywhere.

The Once Over

Carrying out this writer's semiannual interviews with the Man Who Built a Better Mousetrap, we contacted him and found he, too, has troubles. "Inflation has hurt me," he said. "The cost of holes in mousetraps has gone up 80 per cent.

I decided to use fewer holes but ran into labor disputes. The hole cutters demanded more holes, not fewer. They claimed that a man had to have the right to cut twice as many holes as in the old days in order to keep employment at high levels."

"Was there a strike?" we asked. "The mousetrap crisis is before federal mediators," he replied. "If there's a strike by the hole cutters, the spring makers and cheese hook boys will go out in sympathy. I've been bothered by jurisdictional issues, too. My mousetrap painters demanded that they must be consulted by the hole cutters on the size of all holes."

"Any merger troubles?" we asked.

"Yeah. I wanted to keep abreast of the trend, so I thought of merging with National Catnip, Federated Cheese Products, Inc., Universal Moth Killer and North American Roach Exterminator. But some of my crazy directors wanted to buy into U.S. Buffalo Hunts and Canadian Moose Enterprises. This was carrying diversification too far. You can't get a buffalo or moose into a mousetrap."

"Any fringe benefit disputes?"

"That's my real headache. What part of a mousetrap constitutes the fringe?" he asked.

"How do the mice stand on this point?" we inquired.

An Appeal For Help

The Columbiana County Retarded Children's Council will launch next week its first concentrated drive for funds with which to operate its current two special classes and to expand its program to help mentally-retarded youngsters.

Decorated containers which will be placed in the various business establishments are aptly called "Wells of Hope" since it is from these containers and a mail solicitation that will come the donations upon which the hopes of the retarded children rest to a considerable degree.

The council asks not only money for these young people. It also seeks understanding and respect for their role in society and for their efforts to achieve self - sufficiency and responsibility.

A contribution to the campaign will symbolize not only a wish for success, but will serve as a salute to a modern attitude toward an ancient problem.

Weird Tension Grips South Africa

By Victor Riesel

DURBAN, South Africa

From these Indian Ocean docks the roads twist hot and dusty deep into Zululand. They cross the swift rail link to Portuguese Mozambique's big port. Over these roads I've driven in the newest cars. I've spoken to college educated Zulu chiefs. I've mixed with their people, garbed as you and I — in Western trousers. They use their spears only in grudge fights after beer drinking sprees.

Victor Riesel

Kids in the kraals out on the veldt were delighted to swing into the jubilation over the ceremonies during the "coronation" of Cyprian Ka Dini Zulu, Chief of All Chiefs. But they would rather swing to American jazz.

Yet there is an African "mystique"—a mysterious strange tension which hangs over you when you drive out of white areas. Some day this "mystique" will deaden these ports, paralyze the rail lines, immobilize the lower part of this continent. No one will know how it happened but suddenly the great stillness will be there.

THE NATIVES of this end of Africa simply will stop working. Twice, in one tiny corner, it happened here.

A few months ago, out on the piers a bit down from my hotel window, the Zulu longshoremen suddenly quit toting those bales.

They struck. But no strike had been called. They had no union. They had no leaders. No one could learn who timed this stoppage or who developed strategy.

One Zulu leader, Moses Mabhida, national vice president of the South African Congress of Trade Unions, told me that not even he or his colleagues could learn who led the 2,000 non-unionized Zulu dockwallopers. And Mabhida is of their own flesh and blood.

It could be that Moses Mabhida did not pierce the "mystique" because he is a city Zulu while the longshoremen were up-country tribesmen. But there was another man who should have known. He is the "induna."

"The "induna" is the voice of the tribal chief when the supreme leader is elsewhere. If the chief is up-country with his tribesmen he still is leader of all his people wherever they are — even on the Durban docks. If he isn't here to give orders to the boys away from the kraal, there is always an "induna," virtually unknown to the West.

There are group "indunas" and regional "indunas." The group "indunas" each cover age brackets. There is one for the "vukayibambe," the 17 to 35; another for the 35 to 45, etc. They are the voice of tribal authority away from home. Yet the "indunas" themselves did not know who ordered the strike or whether any one actually directed the men.

NO ONE KNEW, not even the "Special Branch," the government's intelligence service. Still 2,000 Zulus simply stopped working. They were not happy with the 14 cents a day raise they had just been handed.

They were fired. This meant going back up-country to Zululand's reserves. A month ago there was another "strike." Again 2,000 men were fired and new recruits were brought in from outlying tribes.

Hundreds of thousands of other Zulu workers have not yet struck in defiance of the South African police and their big Saracen tanks. But the tension grows tauter. The other day I covered a demonstration of Zulu wives in green shirts.

For two hours they sat silently on the steps of the City Hall. No signal was given but suddenly, silently they arose and walked away. Their husbands were at work — earning from $6.25 a week to $7.50. Of this they pay some 32 cents a day for bus fare. They live on half a loaf of bread a day, some milk, some kind of lemon or lime soda pop and meat once a week.

Some live in huts made of pieces of tin and cardboard. Some are luckier. They have found a big oil drum and cut it in half and slip under it at night. This is Cato Manor, five miles out up on the hill where they rioted and burned municipal property last month. Whatever that African "mystique" is, there is no mystery about what binds the Zulu millions together.

Was The Timing Bad?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Vice President Richard M. Nixon's good will Soviet visit has started off sticky and can get worse. If it does, President Eisenhower and the Senate will have to ask themselves if their timing was bad.

Nixon, whose gladhanding Latin-American tour a year ago was met with spit and stones, got a shocking reception Thursday just about the time he landed in Moscow and started shaking hands with all in sight.

Twenty miles away Premier Nikita Khrushchev, angered by a recent anti-Communist gesture of Eisenhower and the Senate, was deriding the United States and calling Nixon's visit part of a plan to embarrass the Soviet Union.

On July 6 the Senate, by voice vote and with little debate, passed a resolution calling on Eisenhower to proclaim the third week in every July as Captive Nations Week. Eisenhower issued the proclamation July 17.

This was the latest of many similar American reminders that the Soviet Union was holding the satellites in thralldom. It was supposed to serve several purposes:

To remind the satellite people the United States hasn't forgotten them; and to strengthen Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's hand in dealing with the Russians at Geneva on the Berlin problem.

How this could strengthen Herter's hand is hard to see. A Senate resolution on an old theme wasn't going to make the Russians weak-kneed. It was nothing more than a gesture.

And, since this country isn't going to war to free the satellites and there is no visible likelihood of their getting freedom otherwise, the only immediate result could have been expected: it irritated the Russians.

So, since Nixon's Soviet visit is billed as a good will tour whose climax is interviews with Kruschchev, the judgment behind the timing of this resolution and proclamation is open to question.

For this reason: When Nixon landed in Moscow it was in the middle of the Captive Nations Week as proclaimed by Eisenhower.

Khrushchev, who had just returned to Moscow himself from a trip to Poland about an hour before Nixon's plane touched down, hastened to address a Polish friendship meeting 20 miles from the Moscow airport.

He was in a savage mood. Whether this was due only to the proclamation or was part of a deliberately get - tough - with-America campaign he seems to be building up is not clear. But the proclamation gave him a good excuse to strike at the United States just as Nixon arrived in the Soviet Union.

He told the crowd Nixon was a representative of the "panic - stricken American imperialists" and said Nixon's trip was deliberately timed to coincide with a campaign against the Soviet Union.

The Senate and the Eisenhower administration both might have anticipated that—by letting Captive Nations Week coincide with the week of Nixon's arrival in Moscow — they might be giving the Russians a chance to embarrass him. And the Russians chose to react just that way.

Any of the year's 52 weeks could just as easily have been designated Captive Nations Week. Why, then, was the choice made of the very week that Nixon went to Russia? The answer seems to be: thoughtlessness all around and not deliberate timing.

The resolution was offered by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill), with Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) joining in.

Thursday night in the Senate Douglas was asked if the third week in July had been designated in his resolution so as to coincide with the arrival of Nixon in Moscow.

He said no, that the timing was "purely coincidental." Originally, he said, the resolution called for the week after the Fourth of July. This was changed, he said, after there was a delay in passing the resolution.

Self-restraint is a confession of a deficiency of hairy manhood.

Consideration for the problems of the fellow responsible for keeping the game going is "un-American." The idea is to put tacks in his shoes and nettles in his bed, to poke fun at him and to demonstrate that in all ways the goon is his master and his superior.

We did it, all right. But now that we've proved it could be done we're not happy. When I see a picture of some ball-playing meathead jawing an umpire I think of all the meat-heads jawing Congress, the judiciary, the police and decent people in general. I want to reassure myself that they can't get away with it, but you know what?

They are getting away with it. It scares me stiff.

Your aunt says it scares her stiff, too, and sends her regards in a stiffened condition. Me, too.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Even before this Legislature is through, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's governmental Reorganization Committee is laying the groundwork for recommendations to the next.

The committee—named at a Cabinet meeting a week ago—met Thursday and announced it will begin its study of ways to save time and money in government with a look at the Industrial Commission and Bureau of Workmen's Compensation.

Richard C. Crouch, state liquor control director and chairman of the Cabinet-level committee, said there is no particular reason for selecting the commission and bureau, but "we had to start somewhere."

Crouch said the committee wants to study "basically similar" reports from employers which go both to the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation and the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

The governor named the committee when it appeared his bill to reorganize some parts of the state government was doomed to defeat in the Legislature.

Delivery Truck Drifts And Strikes Parked Car

A delivery truck drifted from a parking place on a Vine St. grade Thursday and struck a parked auto, officers reported.

Owned by Bloor's Pharmacy, the 1959 model truck was parked about 10:45 a. m. by George Bennett, 19, of 110 W. Center Ln. while he made a delivery of medicine to a nearby home, police said. The truck drifted downgrade, hitting a parked 1951 sedan owned by Lloyd R. Cunningham of Lisbon St.

Bennett told police the brakes on the truck apparently slipped, causing it to drift. The mishap damaged the right rear of the truck and the left rear of the auto, officers said.

Officers Ask Salem Voters For Pay Boost

The Salem police department filed a proposed initiative ordinance Thursday with Mrs. Helen Coyne, Salem city auditor, seeking a vote at the Nov. 3 general election on a $40-a-month general increase for all officers.

The petition carries the signatures of 880 persons. A minimum of 568 signatures is required to gain a ballot place, based on 10 per cent of the vote cast in Salem for governor at the last general election.

The law requires the auditor to hold the petition 10 days for public inspection, but she must certify it to the County Election Board by 4 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 5, in order to gain a November ballot place. She is expected to make the certification about Aug. 3.

Salem's force has 13 officers. Patrolmen are paid $416 monthly and the chief draws $536. A bare majority will decide the fate of the proposed ordinance. If approved by the voters, it will have the same effect as legislation enacted by Council.

The state law requires the auditor to certify her findings to the Election Board as to the "sufficiency" of the petition — in other words whether it meets legal requirements and carries at least the minimum number of valid voters' signatures required by the state law. If she determines that the petition is "sufficient" she makes a certification to the Election Board to that effect, along with a copy of the text of the proposed ordinance.

Police Chief In Massillon Resigns Post

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Police Chief Stanley Switter resigned today after Mayor Edgar L. Lash threatened to suspend him in the midst of this city's gambling furore. The chief said he will retire.

The mayor gave Switter an ultimatum this morning: He could resign or be suspended. The chief's job is under civil service.

The action came as a climax to a month-long series of anti-gambling raids, mostly by policemen who were off duty.

Switter, who is 57, said he had no comment on his resignation.

"It has been evident for some time," the mayor said, "that there has been a breakdown in morale of the police department."

As a result, he added, the chief, who has been with the department almost 25 years, has reduced his value to the 29-man force.

In voicing disapproval of recent developments in the department, Mayor Lash had praise for Switter's previous record.

"He has given good and long service to the community," the mayor said.

Historical Society Finishes Plan For Morgan Raid Tour

Final plans for the Wellsville Historical Society's participation Sunday in a tour over the district route of Gen. John H. Morgan and his Confederate cavalrymen 96 years ago were made at a meeting Thursday night in the River Museum at Wellsville.

Members of the expected motorcade of 75 to 100 cars will meet at the museum at 1 p. m. and begin the tour at 1:30 p. m. at Bergholz. Members of county historical societies and other organizations will join the tour.

The tour will end at Morgan's monument at a Roadside Park at West Point. Morgan was captured at a farm near West Point, July 26, 1863, after beginning his raids earlier in Tennessee.

The society decided to have reprints made of its paper the "Echos" of June 1957 telling of the end of Morgan's raid and his escape from the Ohio Penitentiary. They will be distributed to tour members.

The society decided to make signs and to mark the route of the raid as the tour progresses.

Retarded Child Funds Sought

The fund campaign marks a stepped - up effort to provide more money for the council's operations, heretofore paid by mail solicitations and state funds.

THE COUNCIL operates special classes at Garfield School here and at Salem, and the funds are used for salaries for two teachers and for two drivers, operation of two station wagons which travel 1,200 miles weekly, rent for one classroom, educational and incidental expenses and other needs.

Other objectives of the council include increasing public understanding of the retarded children and their capabilities of living useful lives.

Some of the causes of retardation are brain injury at birth or shortly afterward, malformation before birth, serious illness of the mother during pregnancy or from Mongoloidism, infant malformation.

Through local, state and national programs, the previous tendency to shut retarded children off from other youngsters and to withhold them from school is giving away to special projects and classes.

THE COUNCIL provides the special classes because youngsters with intelligent quotients under 50 are excluded from the public school program.

The class in East Liverpool has been in operation five years, and the one at Salem for three years. The enrollment of such classes — due to the special needs of students —is limited to 12.

It is estimated 3 out of every 100 children are either born retarded or destined to be and the affliction strikes persons of all races and social levels. The problem not only involves the youngsters, but also the parents and brothers and sisters who must aid him and overcome the public attitude.

Mentally retarded children, however, face a brighter, more hopeful future than ever before, the council said, because those who can be educated can also become adults capable of earning a living, and those who can only be trained, still can become more useful to themselves and society through special programs.

The goals of schooling are to give as much an academic education as possible, to broaden the child's interest and information, to help the child to act acceptably as possible in society, to teach safety, hygiene and personal care, to develop manual skills toward a trade and to give the joy of association with other children.

Future plans of the council include establishment of a nursery class for children not yet ready for a formal class, to start a sheltered workshop where retarded adults may be employed profitably, to support a home visitor to help parents face the problems of a retarded child and to consolidate the classes at one central location for separate age groups and more efficient teaching.

INDIVIDUALS and organizations may help in the program by volunteering to serve, by sponsoring various projects needed by the council and encouraging public resources for handicapped youngsters.

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Police Chief Stanley Switter resigned today after Mayor Edgar L. Lash threatened to suspend him in the midst of this city's gambling furore. The chief said he will retire.

The mayor gave Switter an ultimatum this morning: He could resign or be suspended. The chief's job is under civil service.

The action came as a climax to a month-long series of anti-gambling raids, mostly by policemen who were off duty.

Why Not Become Career Passenger

Wanting New, Inexpensive Hobby?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—If you are looking for a new and inexpensive hobby, why not become a career passenger?

A career passenger is a person who enjoys motoring but doesn't know how to drive a motor car—and doesn't intend to learn. He just goes along for the ride.

America has been a nation on wheels for so long now that any able-bodied person who admits he can't drive an auto is looked upon with pity, as if he suffered an affliction of some kind.

Years ago, when I first confessed in print my inability to steer a four-wheeled vehicle, I received a postcard from a reader saying:

"You abuse the right of a college graduate to be ignorant. God must have been asleep when you were born."

Actually, however, there are still millions of us career passengers, and both pity and contempt are wasted on us. We don't intend to learn to drive, because we are happy in our ignorance. We feel we get more sheer pleasure out of motoring than anyone.

The driver is tense and anxious. He sees only highway markers and the white winding line on the road. But the career passenger is free to enjoy the beautiful scenery—and to tell the driver all the wonderful sights he is missing.

Traffic jams don't disturb the career passenger. He merely pulls out a newspaper or a copy of Tolstoi's "War and Peace," and reads serenely until the jam is broken.

Motoring gives him no ulcers. He never worries about the crazy drivers in other cars. Not being a driver himself, he is unaware of the idiots behind other wheels or the peril they put him in.

To be a career passenger sounds easy. But there is an art to it—as there is to any profession or hobby. Here are a few general rules to follow if you expect to become a real pro:

1. Never sit in the back seat. If you get the reputation of being a back seat driver, your career will be ruined.

2. Fight down any temptation to be helpful. If the driver hands you a road map, hold it upside down and ask cheerfully, "where to?" The driver will shake his head, take back the map and find his own way. Then if he takes the wrong road it is his responsibility.

3. Give praise, but give it judiciously — the praise a driver hungers for from his wife but rarely gets. Every half hour compliment him on how he made a curve. If you can't honestly praise his driving, praise the performance of the car.

4. Motoring has the same effect on a driver that a psychiatrist's couch has on a hypochondriac. He will want to tell you his life story. You don't have to listen to him, but you should pretend to. Just say "m-m-m-mmm" now and then, and he'll never know the difference.

5. Don't offer to pay part of the gas or oil costs. You have done enough for the driver by listening to him and praising him. Having served as a medicine to his ego, why should you offer him money?

6. If his car breaks down, don't offer to help. Get out and hitchhike another ride. Your professional standing as a career passenger will be impaired if word gets around that you're helpful in an emergency. Avoid any feeling of gratitude. Remember, you are neither a parasite or a sponge. Your role is creative.

It is the driver who should be grateful. You are perhaps the one person in the world he can feel superior to — at least while he is behind the wheel — and therefore you are filling a vital need in his life.

He's lucky you don't charge him for the ride.

Q. What is a good mosquito-repellant for outdoor campers?

A. Creosote is one of the best for keeping mosquitoes away from the quarters of your summer camp. If you are sleeping outdoors, smear one side of pieces of paper with the creosote, tack them to the legs of the cots, and place a piece near your head. A few pieces of the paper hung about the inside of your tent or cottage will also help.

Q. How can I make my dark hair darker without actually tinting it?

A. Massage the scalp nightly with olive oil, and keep this up for several weeks.

Q. How can I remove some dried spots of paint from my hands?

A. A very quick and effective way of doing this is to use some fingernail polish remover.

There have been five U. S. presidents in this century who formerly served as state governors. These were McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Coolidge and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

8 Draw Long Prison Terms In Conspiracy

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Eight members of the Textile Workers Union drew long prison sentences Thursday after their conviction for conspiring to dynamite a struck cotton mill.

The eight included Boyd Payton 51, Carolinas director of the union who led the long and often violent strike at the Harriet-Henderson cotton mills here.

Superior Court Judge Raymond Mallard sentenced Payton to 6 to 10 years at hard labor. Judge Millard said: "I hope all of you gentlemen will some day come to understand that the law is bigger than you, bigger than the union, bigger than any organization. The good people of North Carolina will not tolerate anyone holding themselves above the law."

Payton's aide, Lawrence Gore, and Charles Auslander, 47, of Spray, a minor union official, also received 6 to 10 years at hard labor.

All eight were convicted on three counts of conspiring to blow up an office building, the boiler room and a substation feeding power to the South Henderson plant of the mills.

The other defendants and their terms: Warren Walker, 38; Robert Edward Abbott, 21; Calvin Ray Pegram, 22; and Johnny Martin, 57, each received 5 to 7-year terms; and Malcolm Harrell, 23, received 2 to 3 years.

The strike started last Nov. 17 when the union and company failed to agree on an arbitration clause in their contract. Violence broke out Feb. 16 when the company began hiring replacement workers. The state ordered highway patrolmen to the scene for several weeks. They were replaced by National Guardsmen in May. Though this force has been reduced, it still is on duty.

House Group Exempts Radio-TV Equal Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Commerce Committee has approved a bill that would exempt radio-television newscasts from the equal time rule.

The rule provides that a station giving time to one political candidate on a program must give the same amount of time to all other candidates. Under the bill, interview programs and coverage of political conventions also would be exempt.

Use kitchen tongs to turn steaks with instead of a fork. If a fork is used on broiled steaks it allows good juices to escape.

Why Not Become Career Passenger

Wanting New, Inexpensive Hobby?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—If you are looking for a new and inexpensive hobby, why not become a career passenger?

A career passenger is a person who enjoys motoring but doesn't know how to drive a motor car—and doesn't intend to learn. He just goes along for the ride.

America has been a nation on wheels for so long now that any able-bodied person who admits he can't drive an auto is looked upon with pity, as if he suffered an affliction of some kind.

Years ago, when I first confessed in print my inability to steer a four-wheeled vehicle, I received a postcard from a reader saying:

"You abuse the right of a college graduate to be ignorant. God must have been asleep when you were born."

Actually, however, there are still millions of us career passengers, and both pity and contempt are wasted on us. We don't intend to learn to drive, because we are happy in our ignorance. We feel we get more sheer pleasure out of motoring than anyone.

The driver is tense and anxious. He sees only highway markers and the white winding line on the road. But the career passenger is free to enjoy the beautiful scenery—and to tell the driver all the wonderful sights he is missing.

Traffic jams don't disturb the career passenger. He merely pulls out a newspaper or a copy of Tolstoi's "War and Peace," and reads serenely until the jam is broken.

Motoring gives him no ulcers. He never worries about the crazy drivers in other cars. Not being a driver himself, he is unaware of the idiots behind other wheels or the peril they put him in.

To be a career passenger sounds easy. But there is an art to it—as there is to any profession or hobby. Here are a few general rules to follow if you expect to become a real pro:

1. Never sit in the back seat. If you get the reputation of being a back seat driver, your career will be ruined.

2. Fight down any temptation to be helpful. If the driver hands you a road map, hold it upside down and ask cheerfully, "where to?" The driver will shake his head, take back the map and find his own way. Then if he takes the wrong road it is his responsibility.

3. Give praise, but give it judiciously — the praise a driver hungers for from his wife but rarely gets. Every half hour compliment him on how he made a curve. If you can't honestly praise his driving, praise the performance of the car.

4. Motoring has the same effect on a driver that a psychiatrist's couch has on a hypochondriac. He will want to tell you his life story. You don't have to listen to him, but you should pretend to. Just say "m-m-m-mmm" now and then, and he'll never know the difference.

5. Don't offer to pay part of the gas or oil costs. You have done enough for the driver by listening to him and praising him. Having served as a medicine to his ego, why should you offer him money?

6. If his car breaks down, don't offer to help. Get out and hitchhike another ride. Your professional standing as a career passenger will be impaired if word gets around that you're helpful in an emergency. Avoid any feeling of gratitude. Remember, you are neither a parasite or a sponge. Your role is creative.

It is the driver who should be grateful. You are perhaps the one person in the world he can feel superior to — at least while he is behind the wheel — and therefore you are filling a vital need in his life.

He's lucky you don't charge him for the ride.

For Coming Fall, Winter

Big Belted Overcoat Pet Of Italian Fashion Show

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) —The big belted overcoat is the pet of Italian fashion collections for the coming fall and winter.

The eight days of showings in Rome and Florence ended Thursday night. The couturiers joined in a buckle up, muffle up refrain.

Heavy muted tweeds were fashioned into a cape-back silhouette, bulky and round-shouldered, with deep low-set sleeves baring the wrists.

The Italian collections on the whole were sedate, tailored and cautious. Their frivolity was restricted to fur trimmings, chunky necklaces and an occasional flounce.

Dark colors and conservative fabrics dominated daytime clothes. But lame (pronounced lah-may), embossed satin and encrusted lace ran riot at night.

Suits and dresses generally were straight and slim, with hemlines below the knees. Tunic tops came back, both fitted and loose. Suit jackets tended to hug the hips.

The waistline wandered slightly, mostly south. Hemlines frequently were doubled by the prevalent use of redingotes, middies and coats slightly shorter than the skirts beneath.

The collections of two designers under 30 were outstanding.

Roberto Capucci showed voluminous evening coats and trim tunic suits. Patrick de Barentzen, Fath-trained Frenchman showing for the second time in Rome, scored with low-slung trench coats and imaginative detail.

Other highlights of the Italian pageant of style were Irene Galitzine's Trompe l'Oeil suits, Fabiani's girded tweed ponchos, and the knitted silks seen among the Florence boutique offerings.

For Coming Fall, Winter

Big Belted Overcoat Pet Of Italian Fashion Show

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) —The big belted overcoat is the pet of Italian fashion collections for the coming fall and winter.

The eight days of showings in Rome and Florence ended Thursday night. The couturiers joined in a buckle up, muffle up refrain.

Heavy muted tweeds were fashioned into a cape-back silhouette, bulky and round-shouldered, with deep low-set sleeves baring the wrists.

The Italian collections on the whole were sedate, tailored and cautious. Their frivolity was restricted to fur trimmings, chunky necklaces and an occasional flounce.

Dark colors and conservative fabrics dominated daytime clothes. But lame (pronounced lah-may), embossed satin and encrusted lace ran riot at night.

Suits and dresses generally were straight and slim, with hemlines below the knees. Tunic tops came back, both fitted and loose. Suit jackets tended to hug the hips.

The waistline wandered slightly, mostly south. Hemlines frequently were doubled by the prevalent use of redingotes, middies and coats slightly shorter than the skirts beneath.

The collections of two designers under 30 were outstanding.

Roberto Capucci showed voluminous evening coats and trim tunic suits. Patrick de Barentzen, Fath-trained Frenchman showing for the second time in Rome, scored with low-slung trench coats and imaginative detail.

Other highlights of the Italian pageant of style were Irene Galitzine's Trompe l'Oeil suits, Fabiani's girded tweed ponchos, and the knitted silks seen among the Florence boutique offerings.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Can you save this marriage? My wife is running around with a divorced woman who is a tramp. Her former husband was a good friend of mine and a finer man never lived.

My wife has been taking out-of-town trips with this woman and stories have got back to me that are a disgrace. They are supposed to be on a "traveling bowling team" — whatever that means. I've phoned the woman and asked her to leave my wife alone. She says, "Your wife is old enough to choose her own friends."

We have three children who realize what is happening. The house is always a mess and I've had to get dinner for myself and the kids more times than I care to mention. What do you suggest? — HELP WANTED.

Dear Help Wanted: Instead of pouring out all that molten lava on the divorcee, why not reserve the lion's share of it for your wife. She's the one who deserves it.

The woman is correct when she says your wife is old enough to choose her own friends. And if this is her choice, then she doesn't deserve the respectability of home, husband and children. Tell her she can go with you to a clergyman or a marriage counselor and talk over the problem (something is wrong or she wouldn't be running around) or she can take all her clothes and live in the bowling alley.

Delicate Problem

Dear Ann: This is one of those delicate situations we wish to discuss with an "interested" disinterested person.

A year ago I married a widower. We are very content. Both of us speak sensibly about our previous lives, as we know it is a chapter that existed before we met and married.

He asked me to accompany him on Memorial Day to the cemetery to place flowers on the family plot. Of course I went. Now something is bothering me. His wife is at rest under a single headstone which reads: "Husband and Wife."

If he were to die before me he really would not belong there as he is now my husband. If I die before he does, there would be no place for me in his family plot. What do you suggest? He asked me to write to you. — SENSIBLE.

Dear Sensible: When death comes to a family and grief takes over, people sometimes make warped decisions based on the way they feel at the moment.

I'm sure it never occurred to your husband when he selected the single headstone for his wife and himself that he would one day marry again. Since he did make the decision, it is my opinion that you should insist that he stick with it.

This will be a great relief for him. Let him know you don't attach any great importance to the final resting place. This is the enlightened approach and he can only admire you for it.

Danced Trouble Away

Dear Ann: The letter from "Washout," who was such a poor dancer that one fellow paid $2 to get rid of her on the dance floor, could have been from me.

At 16 I dreaded dancing so much I purposely avoided going to places where there might be music. One day our minister's wife suggested I join the church's dancing class for teen-agers. She said, "Anyone who can count to 8 can dance."

I took her advice and signed up for 20 lessons. I didn't feel embarrassed because everyone else was awkward too.

Now I'm 20 and considered a fine dancer and my personality has actually improved because of it. Whenever I see young people suffering on the floor, fearfully watching their feet, I want to tell them about my experience.

Please print this. You can tell millions. — JEANNE.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Burglary

had ever been in the lumber firm with the defendants. His action surprised the prosecution which called for a continuance in the police trials and they did not get under way again on the burglary charges until last year.

On the basis of Bishop's guilty plea, he was sentenced by Judge Joel H. Sharp to the penitentiary, but Bishop appealed and requested permission to change his plea and stand trial. This was granted by the Supreme Court after it had been denied in County Court.

Another request to the Supreme Court to change the site of his trials from Columbiana County because of prejudice was rejected.

Bishop was cleared of the Berman burglary charge on a directed verdict by Judge Raymond Buzzard who ruled the evidence in the trial indicated an alleged entering different from the one charged.

Bishop is the only one of the indicted officers sent to prison.

Cunningham and Raimond were convicted in the November 1952 burglary of the Burbick Hardware Co. and Louis Stuttler, another ex-officer, was convicted in December of a 1954 entering of the hardware firm.

Cunningham was found guilty this year of bribery of a prospective juror prior to his trial on the Burbick charge.

Appeals are pending on the convictions of the men, who are free on bond.

Since the 1956 police department investigation, acquittals have been won by Robert Hanna for an entering of Smith & Phillips, and Cunningham and Raimond for the Berman entering. Robert Carroll, another former officer, was tried with Cunningham and Raimond for the Burbick burglary, but was acquitted.

There are still six indictments on the docket for trial in the future.

Free on bond also is Robert McBane, former officer, who pleaded guilty to eight of the nine burglary indictments and has been a key prosecution witness in most of the trials.

2 County Prisoners Taken To Columbus

LISBON — Sheriff's deputies transferred two prisoners to Ohio State Penitentiary today to serve terms imposed in Common Pleas Court.

Charles Boling, 29, of Lancaster will serve 1-15 years for the burglary of the Lisbon Spring & Wire Co. July 18, 1958.

Robert Phillips, 40, of St. Louis, Mo., former manager of the Lisbon Manos Theater, starts 1-10 years for embezzlement of $1,352 from the movie.

Miss USA In Running

Finalists Trimmed To 15 In Miss Universe Contest

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Each of the 15 finalists in the Miss Universe beauty pageant is going to be divided — like ancient Gaul —into three parts tonight.

At least that's the way she'll be studied by contest judges, who cut the field of 34 lovelies to a select 15 Thursday night. The judges look for three things as the girls parade in evening dresses and then bathing suits: charm, body, face.

Finalists are:

Miss Belgium, Helene Savigny, 24, an aspiring actress; Miss Brazil, Vera Ribeiro, 19, who also wants to be an actress; Miss Colombia, France-educated Olga Pumarejo, 20; Miss England, drama student Pamela Anne Searle, 21; Miss France, Francoise Saint Laurent, 18.

Miss Germany, Carmela Kunzel, 19, an aspiring teacher; Miss Greece, would-be film star Zoe Koyroykly; Iceland's 18-year-old Sigridur Thorvaldsdottir; Miss Israel, Rina Issacov, 19, a university student from Tel Aviv.

Miss Japan, Akiki Kojima, 22, a leggy fashion model from Tokyo; Miss Korea, Hyun Choo Oh, 19, an aspiring ballerina; Miss Norway, Jorunn Kristiansen, 18, who wants to be a gym teacher; Miss Poland, ballet dancer Zuzanna Cembrowska, 19, Miss Sweden, Marie-Louise Ekstrom, 20, who wants to raise a family; and Miss U.S.A., Terry Lynn Huntingdon, 19, a UCLA coed.

Financier Sought In Fraud Found In Rio de Janeiro

NEW YORK (AP)—Lowell M. Birrell, a lawyer and financier wanted here in connection with a multimillion-dollar stock fraud, has been located in Rio de Janeiro.

Birrell, 52, missing since 1957 when a warrant was issued for his arrest, was charged two weeks ago in a 69-count indictment with engineering a 14 - million - dollar fraud on stockholders in two companies.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Thursday that Birrell, who has been reported seen in various cities around the globe, arrived in Rio this week probably from Paris. Hogan said Birrell is using the name Lowell McAfee. His middle name is McAfee.

Brazil has no extradition treaty with the United States, so Birrell's deportation is being sought through the State Department. Hogan said he may have a fraudulent passport.

Birrell disappeared in November 1957 after he failed to appear in federal court in an injunction proceeding on a charge of violation of the Securities and Exchange Commission rules.

Rockefeller Seen Making President Bid Next Winter

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Chairman L. Judson Morhouse is telling influential Republicans in other states that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller may declare for the presidency next winter.

Morhouse has been passing the word among party "pros" that Rockefeller will enter the race if he believes he has "a fighting chance" to gain the GOP nomination.

Several days ago, the governor indicated he might throw his hat into the ring under certain circumstances. But he did not say what the conditions might be.

Morhouse and others in New York's GOP high command are now actively but quietly reconnoitering the situation on Rockefeller's behalf.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Nathaniel Green, 4-year-old son of Mrs. Catherine Green, was crushed to death Thursday when a wooden fireplace mantel fell on him. Mrs. Green and her three children had just moved into the apartment here. Elijah Prior, the building custodian, said he had cautioned the children against crawling on the mantel.

Court Frees Truckers In License Convictions

Convictions of two truckers on alleged license plate violations in the mayor's court at Columbiana have been reversed by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon.

Fines of $20 and costs and convictions were set aside and the men cleared of the charges of not having Ohio plates on their trucks. They were cited to Mayor Erwood Calvin of Columbiana in February 1958 by Howard Lisk, inspector for the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Judge Sharp ruled the trucks were operated by the Davis Trucking Co., a West Virginia Corporation, and did not require Ohio registration.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Can you save this marriage? My wife is running around with a divorced woman who is a tramp. Her former husband was a good friend of mine and a finer man never lived.

My wife has been taking out-of-town trips with this woman and stories have got back to me that are a disgrace. They are supposed to be on a "traveling bowling team" — whatever that means. I've phoned the woman and asked her to leave my wife alone. She says, "Your wife is old enough to choose her own friends."

We have three children who realize what is happening. The house is always a mess and I've had to get dinner for myself and the kids more times than I care to mention. What do you suggest? — HELP WANTED.

Dear Help Wanted: Instead of pouring out all that molten lava on the divorcee, why not reserve the lion's share of it for your wife. She's the one who deserves it.

The woman is correct when she says your wife is old enough to choose her own friends. And if this is her choice, then she doesn't deserve the respectability of home, husband and children. Tell her she can go with you to a clergyman or a marriage counselor and talk over the problem (something is wrong or she wouldn't be running around) or she can take all her clothes and live in the bowling alley.

Delicate Problem

Dear Ann: This is one of those delicate situations we wish to discuss with an "interested" disinterested person.

A year ago I married a widower. We are very content. Both of us speak sensibly about our previous lives, as we know it is a chapter that existed before we met and married.

He asked me to accompany him on Memorial Day to the cemetery to place flowers on the family plot. Of course I went. Now something is bothering me. His wife is at rest under a single headstone which reads: "Husband and Wife."

If he were to die before me he really would not belong there as he is now my husband. If I die before he does, there would be no place for me in his family plot. What do you suggest? He asked me to write to you. — SENSIBLE.

Dear Sensible: When death comes to a family and grief takes over, people sometimes make warped decisions based on the way they feel at the moment.

I'm sure it never occurred to your husband when he selected the single headstone for his wife and himself that he would one day marry again. Since he did make the decision, it is my opinion that you should insist that he stick with it.

This will be a great relief for him. Let him know you don't attach any great importance to the final resting place. This is the enlightened approach and he can only admire you for it.

Danced Trouble Away

Dear Ann: The letter from "Washout," who was such a poor dancer that one fellow paid $2 to get rid of her on the dance floor, could have been from me.

At 16 I dreaded dancing so much I purposely avoided going to places where there might be music. One day our minister's wife suggested I join the church's dancing class for teen-agers. She said, "Anyone who can count to 8 can dance."

I took her advice and signed up for 20 lessons. I didn't feel embarrassed because everyone else was awkward too.

Now I'm 20 and considered a fine dancer and my personality has actually improved because of it. Whenever I see young people suffering on the floor, fearfully watching their feet, I want to tell them about my experience.

Please print this. You can tell millions. — JEANNE.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Burglary

had ever been in the lumber firm with the defendants. His action surprised the prosecution which called for a continuance in the police trials and they did not get under way again on the burglary charges until last year.

On the basis of Bishop's guilty plea, he was sentenced by Judge Joel H. Sharp to the penitentiary, but Bishop appealed and requested permission to change his plea and stand trial. This was granted by the Supreme Court after it had been denied in County Court.

Another request to the Supreme Court to change the site of his trials from Columbiana County because of prejudice was rejected.

Bishop was cleared of the Berman burglary charge on a directed verdict by Judge Raymond Buzzard who ruled the evidence in the trial indicated an alleged entering different from the one charged.

Bishop is the only one of the indicted officers sent to prison.

Cunningham and Raimond were convicted in the November 1952 burglary of the Burbick Hardware Co. and Louis Stuttler, another ex-officer, was convicted in December of a 1954 entering of the hardware firm.

Cunningham was found guilty this year of bribery of a prospective juror prior to his trial on the Burbick charge.

Appeals are pending on the convictions of the men, who are free on bond.

Since the 1956 police department investigation, acquittals have been won by Robert Hanna for an entering of Smith & Phillips, and Cunningham and Raimond for the Berman entering. Robert Carroll, another former officer, was tried with Cunningham and Raimond for the Burbick burglary, but was acquitted.

There are still six indictments on the docket for trial in the future.

Free on bond also is Robert McBane, former officer, who pleaded guilty to eight of the nine burglary indictments and has been a key prosecution witness in most of the trials.

Finalists Trimmed To 15 In Miss Universe Contest

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Each of the 15 finalists in the Miss Universe beauty pageant is going to be divided — like ancient Gaul —into three parts tonight.

At least that's the way she'll be studied by contest judges, who cut the field of 34 lovelies to a select 15 Thursday night. The judges look for three things as the girls parade in evening dresses and then bathing suits: charm, body, face.

Finalists are:

Miss Belgium, Helene Savigny, 24, an aspiring actress; Miss Brazil, Vera Ribeiro, 19, who also wants to be an actress; Miss Colombia, France-educated Olga Pumarejo, 20; Miss England, drama student Pamela Anne Searle, 21; Miss France, Francoise Saint Laurent, 18.

Miss Germany, Carmela Kunzel, 19, an aspiring teacher; Miss Greece, would-be film star Zoe Koyroykly; Iceland's 18-year-old Sigridur Thorvaldsdottir; Miss Israel, Rina Issacov, 19, a university student from Tel Aviv.

Miss Japan, Akiki Kojima, 22, a leggy fashion model from Tokyo; Miss Korea, Hyun Choo Oh, 19, an aspiring ballerina; Miss Norway, Jorunn Kristiansen, 18, who wants to be a gym teacher; Miss Poland, ballet dancer Zuzanna Cembrowska, 19, Miss Sweden, Marie-Louise Ekstrom, 20, who wants to raise a family; and Miss U.S.A., Terry Lynn Huntingdon, 19, a UCLA coed.

A rocket ship traveling at 18,000 miles an hour would reach the moon in 14 hours. The moon is about 240,000 miles away.

Financier Sought In Fraud Found In Rio de Janeiro

NEW YORK (AP)—Lowell M. Birrell, a lawyer and financier wanted here in connection with a multimillion-dollar stock fraud, has been located in Rio de Janeiro.

Birrell, 52, missing since 1957 when a warrant was issued for his arrest, was charged two weeks ago in a 69-count indictment with engineering a 14 - million - dollar fraud on stockholders in two companies.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Thursday that Birrell, who has been reported seen in various cities around the globe, arrived in Rio this week probably from Paris. Hogan said Birrell is using the name Lowell McAfee. His middle name is McAfee.

Brazil has no extradition treaty with the United States, so Birrell's deportation is being sought through the State Department. Hogan said he may have a fraudulent passport.

Birrell disappeared in November 1957 after he failed to appear in federal court in an injunction proceeding on a charge of violation of the Securities and Exchange Commission rules.

Letter From 'A Sports Fan' ...

We reached into the mail box the other day and pulled out a letter which was signed "A Sports Fan". It dealt with football.

The "fan" agreed with us that East Liverpool should schedule Midland because of the better gate that would result from the natural rivalry.

But he then offered an opinion with which we can't agree. He charged that the Potter football schedule isn't tough enough to attract good crowds.

We feel the high school here year in and year out tackles about as rough a schedule as any team in Ohio. There are few breathers. The "Fan" claims the only teams on the schedule which in turn play a good schedule themselves are Alliance and Warren.

There are some pretty formidable opponents awaiting the Blue and White this coming season, including two new foes — Youngstown South and Struthers, generally among the top teams in the Youngstown district. Also to be met are New Philadelphia, Warren, Steubenville Central, Salem and Alliance.

Weirton would be a top attraction and teams like Mansfield, Zanesville and Barberton might draw, but we feel that schools closer to our area are just as attractive.

It was too bad that Steubenville Big Red had to be dropped. This game was developing into quite a rivalry until actions by the students caused the relationship to end.

Hats Off Department ...

WITH tournament play under way, another Little League season has reached its climax.

We would like to tip our hat to all the Little League officials, managers and coaches who have worked so sincerely to see that the program was successful again this year.

Much time is spent by managers and coaches in teaching youngsters the finer points of the national pastime.

Nobody knows this any better than Tom Cloran and Bob Blake. Cloran is the manager of the American League All-Stars and the Travelers Hotel squad, while Blake directs the Chester Legion team and now the National League All-Stars.

Cloran for instance, along with his coach and right-hand man, Lamphier Burton, has been spending 15 hours or more a week for the past two weeks getting the American League All - Stars in shape for the district tournament.

We imagine that Blake and his coaches, Brian Kiernan and Bob Shaffer, have spent virtually the same amount of time.

Cloran has been holding two-a-day practice sessions for his American Leaguers and it paid off with a 6-2 victory over Massillon the other night.

Cloran is the dean of Little League managers. His record speaks for itself. A veteran of seven Little League seasons, his teams have won the American League pennant six times.

He has turned out some fine ballplayers. One of his prize Little League pupils is Don Shaw, who is now pitching in the minors for Morristown of the Appalachian League.

Hope This Answers Your Question ...

WE HAVE been asked several times in the last few weeks how much a jockey makes at Waterford Park.

A jockey's fee is based on the amount of the purse. Since most of the Waterford Park purses are for $1,000, we will base our figures on that amount.

It is plain to see that Jockey Paul Ward is doing all right for himself with 45 winners at Waterford so far this meeting.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Jim Tatum, 46, University of North Carolina football coach, died Thursday night of a virus infection.

In the hospital halls stood relatives, friends and players praying that the big, moon-faced man would win this lonely fight.

Tatum was hospitalized with the virus last Saturday. Since then, his condition worsened rapidly.

Always the center of controversy, Tatum returned to his alma mater here just four years ago. He wanted to rebuild, the school into a national football power.

He came from the University of Maryland, where he had built a football dynasty in nine years. His teams there played in three bowl games. In 1953 his team was named national champion and Tatum was voted Coach of the Year.

A strong family man, Tatum built a fine home in this college village he loved and embarked on a program of rebuilding North Carolina football. Ironically, he figured this year's team would fulfill his dream.

Tatum first came to the University of North Carolina in 1931 from his home in McColl, S.C. Playing under Carl Snavely, Tatum was an all-Southern Conference player. He was graduated in 1935, followed Snavely to Cornell, but later returned to North Carolina as director of freshmen athletics, becoming head football coach in 1942.

He entered the Navy, served as an assistant to Don Faurot at the Iowa preflight school, and then became coach of the Jacksonville (Fla.) Naval Air Station.

JIM TATUM
Virus Is Fatal.

He went to Oklahoma in 1946, guiding his team into the Gator Bowl.

Then he moved to Maryland. At Maryland, his teams won 73 games, lost only 15, and played 5 ties. His teams played in the Orange, Sugar and Gator bowls.

Minoso Clouts Grand Slam In Uphill Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' 8-5 victory over the New York Yankees in the rubber game of a three-game series Thursday night was described by Tribe manager Joe Gordon as "the big one of the season."

"We have to keep this up for a while," he said. "Need to keep winning two out of three during this home stand."

The manager also said he was hopeful that Tito Francona, who suffered a pulled thigh muscle, would be ready for tonight's opener of a four-game series with the Washington Senators.

"If he says he's all right I'll use him," Gordon said. "He tells me the leg feels pretty good right now. We need his bat in there."

Francona who has hit safely in 17 straight games, was injured in beating out his second hit in the sixth inning, in which the Indians scored seven runs. He opened the sixth with a single and had 3-for-4 for the night to raise his batting average to an even .400.

"I was stretching out to get to the bag when I felt it pull," said the centerfielder. "I'm not worried. It'll be all right."

The club doctor was optimistic that he would not be out for a long period.

Behind 4-0, the Indians scored their seven runs in the sixth on seven hits. The big blow was Minnie Minoso's 4th grand slam home run of his career.

The victory put the Indians within a half-game of the league leading Chicago White Sox, who were rained out.

After Francona had led off the sixth with a single to right field, a double by Rocky Colavito and a single by George Strickland sent Francona home with the Indians' first run. Granny Hamner was out on an infield pop, but Colavito scored on a sacrifice fly by Elmer Valo. Yankee starter Ralph Terry was replaced by Grba. A single by Russ Nixon and a pair of walks forced in another run and set the stage for Minoso's homer. Art Ditmar replaced Grba after Francona and Colavito had singled for their second hits of the inning.

Jim Perry took over the mound for the Indians in the third and blanked the Yankees on one single for four innings. He was credited with his fifth victory against two losses.

Jim Grant retired the Yankees in order in the seventh inning, but the Yankees scored a run off him in the eighth.

Rain Delays Ladies Golf Tournament

MOUNT PROSPECT, Ill. (AP) — A rained-out first round in the $20,000 Mount Prospect Women's Open, richest golf tournament on the Ladies PGA circuit, did wonders for Mickey Wright.

The 72-hole competition on the snug 6,421 - yard par 37-37—74 Mount Prospect Country Club course is to start belatedly today with a field of 35 feminine pros drawing a bead on the $6,500 first prize.

The biggest jackpot in women's golf will be awarded Sunday after rain Thursday forced a double round on the final day.

The only other major women's tournament with a 36-hole finale is the National Open which Mickey has unprecedentedly won the last two years. Mickey, fresh from taking the Alliance Open in Ohio and the $2,200 winning check, has been bothered with a sore shoulder.

"The rainout gave me a chance to visit Stan Kertes (well known pro at Chicago's Bryn Mawr Country Club) to take a look at my swing," said Mickey whose earnings of $12,482 leave her second to Betsy Rawls ($13,194) on the LPGA winning list. "Kertes caught my trouble right away."

Braves Lose To Cincinnati; Mathews Hurt

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If there's to be a turning point in the tight fight for the National League pennant, it may be at hand—not in the won-lost records or batting averages, but in the injury lists.

For while right-hander Jack Sanford proved himself sound again by pitching first-place San Francisco to a 5-1 victory over St. Louis Thursday, Milwaukee's third place Braves found they'll have to do without slugging Ed Mathews indefinitely. And second-place Los Angeles lost Gil Hodges for at least a week.

Hodges, the man with the big bat in the Dodgers' comeback, pulled a leg muscle after his 19th home run had touched off a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Mathews, the NL home run leader with 29, was kept out of the lineup because of a bruised hip, suffered Wednesday, as the Braves slipped 4½ games behind with a 6-2 defeat by Cincinnati. It was the only other game scheduled in the NL.

Hodges broke up a scoreless tie with a two-run homer in the fourth, then was injured sliding in the sixth. The big first baseman is battling .293.

Wally Moon also homered for the Dodgers, his seventh, and forced in another run with a bases loaded walk in a two-run seventh that nailed it for Larry Sherry (1-2). The young right - hander singled home the clincher in the seventh for his first major league victory, but needed Don Drysdale's saving relief job after Ernie Banks singled home two runs in the eighth. Moe Drabowsky (4-8) was the loser.

Sanford had the Cardinals blanked until the ninth, walking one, striking out five and allowing nine hits. Wally Shannon's two-out single broke up the shutout.

The Giants won it in the first inning on Ken Boyer's two-run error after Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda singled with two out and then pulled off a double steal. Wilmer Mizell (11-5) lost it.

Loser Joey Jay (3-7) had shut out the Reds on four hits for 7 2-3 innings before singles by Frank Robinson and Jerry Lynch and the error set up Jones' eighth homer. Brooks Lawrence (5-9) was the winner in relief, pairing with starter Bob Purkey to check the Braves on three hits.

'Puddin Head' Chops Braves Lead With Slam

CINCINNATI (AP)—A lot of the grandstand managers figured the Cincinnati Reds were merely making a desperation move when they latched on to the aging Willie Jones several weeks ago.

Of course the Reds actually were getting a bit desperate for someone to play third adequately and also do a little hitting but Willie, nearing the age of 34, has been filling the bill.

Thursday night at Milwaukee he had his finest moment.

His grand slam home run in the eighth inning wiped out the Braves 2-0 lead and sent the Reds on to a 6-2 triumph over the sagging National League champions.

Ironically, it was Bobby Avila, the hero of the Braves' victory Wednesday night, who made it possible for Jones to get his licks.

Avila fumbled Ed Bailey's grounder to load the bases with two out and bring up Jones.

Jones' blow capped a surge of hitting he has been doing for the last week or more. In the last eight games, all on the road, Willie has punched out 12 hits in 31 times at bat.

The victory gave the Reds a 2-1 edge in the series at Milwaukee. They play Philadelphia here tonight.

The Reds had some mighty fancy pitching in the windup at Milwaukee. When starter Bob Purkey bowed out for a pinch hitter in the seventh he had allowed only two hits and Brooks Lawrence who finished, allowed only one more.

Purkey, however, gave up both his hits in the fourth inning and they figured in the Braves' scoring.

Avila walked and went to third on Bill Bruton's double. Hank Aaron then was walked intentionally and Avila scored as Eddie Kasko was throwing out Bruton at third on Joe Adcock's grounder. Lee Maye then singled Aaron home.

After that, the Braves never got a man past first. Adcock singled in the seventh and Lew Burdette, running for him, was forced at second by Maye. Maye was wiped out by a double play.

The Reds couldn't get more than one hit an inning off Joey Jay until they erupted in the eighth. In that inning Jay got the first two out before Frank Robinson and Jerry Lynch singled.

Sanford Sound, Hurls Giants To 5-1 Win

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Sports Editor

Letter From 'A Sports Fan' ...

We reached into the mail box the other day and pulled out a letter which was signed "A Sports Fan". It dealt with football.

The "fan" agreed with us that East Liverpool should schedule Midland because of the better gate that would result from the natural rivalry.

But he then offered an opinion with which we can't agree. He charged that the Potter football schedule isn't tough enough to attract good crowds.

We feel the high school here year in and year out tackles about as rough a schedule as any team in Ohio. There are few breathers. The "Fan" claims the only teams on the schedule which in turn play a good schedule themselves are Alliance and Warren.

There are some pretty formidable opponents awaiting the Blue and White this coming season, including two new foes — Youngstown South and Struthers, generally among the top teams in the Youngstown district. Also to be met are New Philadelphia, Warren, Steubenville Central, Salem and Alliance.

Weirton would be a top attraction and teams like Mansfield, Zanesville and Barberton might draw, but we feel that schools closer to our area are just as attractive.

It was too bad that Steubenville Big Red had to be dropped. This game was developing into quite a rivalry until actions by the students caused the relationship to end.

Hats Off Department ...

WITH tournament play under way, another Little League season has reached its climax.

We would like to tip our hat to all the Little League officials, managers and coaches who have worked so sincerely to see that the program was successful again this year.

Much time is spent by managers and coaches in teaching youngsters the finer points of the national pastime.

Nobody knows this any better than Tom Cloran and Bob Blake. Cloran is the manager of the American League All-Stars and the Travelers Hotel squad, while Blake directs the Chester Legion team and now the National League All-Stars.

Cloran for instance, along with his coach and right-hand man, Lamphier Burton, has been spending 15 hours or more a week for the past two weeks getting the American League All - Stars in shape for the district tournament.

We imagine that Blake and his coaches, Brian Kiernan and Bob Shaffer, have spent virtually the same amount of time.

Cloran has been holding two-a-day practice sessions for his American Leaguers and it paid off with a 6-2 victory over Massillon the other night.

Cloran is the dean of Little League managers. His record speaks for itself. A veteran of seven Little League seasons, his teams have won the American League pennant six times.

He has turned out some fine ballplayers. One of his prize Little League pupils is Don Shaw, who is now pitching in the minors for Morristown of the Appalachian League.

Hope This Answers Your Question ...

WE HAVE been asked several times in the last few weeks how much a jockey makes at Waterford Park.

A jockey's fee is based on the amount of the purse. Since most of the Waterford Park purses are for $1,000, we will base our figures on that amount.

It is plain to see that Jockey Paul Ward is doing all right for himself with 45 winners at Waterford so far this meeting.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Jim Tatum, 46, University of North Carolina football coach, died Thursday night of a virus infection.

In the hospital halls stood relatives, friends and players praying that the big, moon-faced man would win this lonely fight.

Tatum was hospitalized with the virus last Saturday. Since then, his condition worsened rapidly.

Always the center of controversy, Tatum returned to his alma mater here just four years ago. He wanted to rebuild, the school into a national football power.

He came from the University of Maryland, where he had built a football dynasty in nine years. His teams there played in three bowl games. In 1953 his team was named national champion and Tatum was voted Coach of the Year.

A strong family man, Tatum built a fine home in this college village he loved and embarked on a program of rebuilding North Carolina football. Ironically, he figured this year's team would fulfill his dream.

Tatum first came to the University of North Carolina in 1931 from his home in McColl, S.C. Playing under Carl Snavely, Tatum was an all-Southern Conference player. He was graduated in 1935, followed Snavely to Cornell, but later returned to North Carolina as director of freshmen athletics, becoming head football coach in 1942.

He entered the Navy, served as an assistant to Don Faurot at the Iowa preflight school, and then became coach of the Jacksonville (Fla.) Naval Air Station.

He went to Oklahoma in 1946, guiding his team into the Gator Bowl.

Then he moved to Maryland. At Maryland, his teams won 73 games, lost only 15, and played 5 ties. His teams played in the Orange, Sugar and Gator bowls.

Minoso Clouts Grand Slam In Uphill Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' 8-5 victory over the New York Yankees in the rubber game of a three-game series Thursday night was described by Tribe manager Joe Gordon as "the big one of the season."

"We have to keep this up for a while," he said. "Need to keep winning two out of three during this home stand."

The manager also said he was hopeful that Tito Francona, who suffered a pulled thigh muscle, would be ready for tonight's opener of a four-game series with the Washington Senators.

"If he says he's all right I'll use him," Gordon said. "He tells me the leg feels pretty good right now. We need his bat in there."

Francona who has hit safely in 17 straight games, was injured in beating out his second hit in the sixth inning, in which the Indians scored seven runs. He opened the sixth with a single and had 3-for-4 for the night to raise his batting average to an even .400.

"I was stretching out to get to the bag when I felt it pull," said the centerfielder. "I'm not worried. It'll be all right."

The club doctor was optimistic that he would not be out for a long period.

Behind 4-0, the Indians scored their seven runs in the sixth on seven hits. The big blow was Minnie Minoso's 4th grand slam home run of his career.

The victory put the Indians within a half-game of the league leading Chicago White Sox, who were rained out.

After Francona had led off the sixth with a single to right field, a double by Rocky Colavito and a single by George Strickland sent Francona home with the Indians' first run. Granny Hamner was out on an infield pop, but Colavito scored on a sacrifice fly by Elmer Valo. Yankee starter Ralph Terry was replaced by Grba. A single by Russ Nixon and a pair of walks forced in another run and set the stage for Minoso's homer. Art Ditmar replaced Grba after Francona and Colavito had singled for their second hits of the inning.

Jim Perry took over the mound for the Indians in the third and blanked the Yankees on one single for four innings. He was credited with his fifth victory against two losses.

Jim Grant retired the Yankees in order in the seventh inning, but the Yankees scored a run off him in the eighth.

Rain Delays Ladies Golf Tournament

MOUNT PROSPECT, Ill. (AP) — A rained-out first round in the $20,000 Mount Prospect Women's Open, richest golf tournament on the Ladies PGA circuit, did wonders for Mickey Wright.

The 72-hole competition on the snug 6,421 - yard par 37-37—74 Mount Prospect Country Club course is to start belatedly today with a field of 35 feminine pros drawing a bead on the $6,500 first prize.

The biggest jackpot in women's golf will be awarded Sunday after rain Thursday forced a double round on the final day.

The only other major women's tournament with a 36-hole finale is the National Open which Mickey has unprecedentedly won the last two years. Mickey, fresh from taking the Alliance Open in Ohio and the $2,200 winning check, has been bothered with a sore shoulder.

"The rainout gave me a chance to visit Stan Kertes (well known pro at Chicago's Bryn Mawr Country Club) to take a look at my swing," said Mickey whose earnings of $12,482 leave her second to Betsy Rawls ($13,194) on the LPGA winning list. "Kertes caught my trouble right away."

Midland USW Shoots For Third Straight

13 Teams Left To Battle For Non-Pro Title

Midland USW, the 1959 Pennsylvania Non-Pro champion, will go after its third straight victory tonight in the 8 o'clock contest at Midland's Crucible Field.

Two other games are set with Moses Service of New Castle meeting upset-minded Piney Fork. Piney Fork pulled a surprise Wednesday by knocking off Ford City.

Thursday night a strong Aliquippa J & L team eliminated Wellsburg, 11-5, while Shannock A. C. was knocked out of the tournament in a 9-0 loss to West Kittaning.

Louise Mines handed Freeport its first loss, 3-0.

Only 13 teams remain in the tourney and three squads still remain undefeated. Midland, Levittown and Wampum all have recorded two straight victories.

2 Cleveland Tracks Sold

CLEVELAND (AP) — Stockholders of Cleveland Raceways, Inc., Thursday approved the sale of Thistledown and Cranwood race tracks to Edward J. De Bartolo, a Youngstown building executive, for $5,750,000.

The sale previously had been approved by the board of directors.

De Bartolo will not take over the franchises of the race tracks until next year. At that time he hopes to transfer the Cranwood franchise to Thistledown.

Henry Gottfried, president of Cleveland Raceways, said the shareholders also voted to liquidate and dissolve the corporation. He added that the present management would continue to run the company until the sale is consummated before March of 1960.

Transfer of the racing permits is subject to approval of the Ohio Racing Commission.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching — Brooks Lawrence and Bob Purkey, Reds, checked the Braves on three hits for 6-2 victory with Lawrence the winner, allowing only a single in a scoreless, three-inning mopup after Purkey was lifted for a pinch-hitter.

Hitting — Minnie Minoso, Indians, powered Cleveland within a half game of first place with a grand-slam home run that overhauled a Yankee lead in a seven-run sixth inning for an 8-5 victory.

The Boston Celtics beat the Minneapolis Lakers nine times in as many National Basketball Assn. games last season.

Brown Talks To Gridders

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—Coach Paul Brown told the 57 players at the opening of the Cleveland Browns' training camp here Thursday that football must be "the biggest thing in your life" for the next four and a half months.

Emphasizing that he was talking to the older players as well as the rookies, the coach said:

"If you're an older player and have reached the point where you can't concentrate on what I have to say, maybe you've reached the point where you ought to be looking for other work . . ."

He said he would try to peddle the players who think about football only when they step onto the field.

"In this game, more men fail mentally than physically," he he said.

Three players—Bobby Mitchell, Bob Brodhead and Ron Nietupski—will report late because of Army duty.

Five others are with the College All Stars, who will play the professional football champion Baltimore Colts in Chicago next month. The players who will report here after the All - Star game are Francis O'Brien, Dick Schafrath, Rich Kreitling, Bob Ptacek and John Wooten.

Injury Clinic Set On Aug 6 At Wheeling

An Athletic Injury Conference—first of its kind ever to be staged in the Ohio Valley—has been announced by the Ohio County Medical Society.

The Conference, which is expected to attract some 200 coaches and other high school officials connected with the scholastic athletic program, will be held August 6 in the auditorium of the nurses home at Wheeling Hospital.

Dr. C. B. Buffington, president of the Ohio County Medical Society who also will act as moderator of the Conference, said the need for such a gathering has been apparent for some time now. Many other sections of the country have instituted such conferences on a yearly schedule to help acquaint coaches with some of the problems on injuries — not only on how to prevent them but also how to care for the young athlete after he has been hurt.

The idea is an outgrowth of a series on athletic injuries last fall by Wheeling News-Register Sports Editor Cliff McWilliams.

Dr. Buffington said a list of speakers will be announced as soon as all arrangements have been completed. The speakers, for the most part, will be specialists in the various fields which are likely to be most pertinent to injuries of athletes of high school age.

EL Beagle Club Sets Open Trial

The East Liverpool Beagle Club will hold a field trial Sunday at the Club grounds on the old Y & O Rd.

The trial will be held for hounds that have never won a ribbon and is open to all beagle owners.

Entries close at 8 a. m. and no entry fee will be charged. All dogs will be on equal starting basis.

Cleveland Boxer, Undefeated In 21, To Battle Elorodo

CLEVELAND (AP) — Solomon Boysaw, 26-year-old Clevelander who is unbeaten in 21 lightweight bouts, is scheduled for 10 rounds at Cleveland Arena next Wednesday night against Flash Elorde of the Philippine Islands.

The scrap will be televised nationally in place of a previously announced match between Yvon Durell and Archie Moore. Light heavyweight champ Moore asked the postponement for a month because his wife is ill.

The St. Louis Hawks turned back the Cincinnati Royals 11 times in 12 National Basketball Assn. games last season.

Pickin's Team Wins Golf Event

A team captained by Mrs. William Pickin fired eight under women's par to capture the Ladies Amateur - Amateur best ball tourney Thursday at the East Liverpool Country Club.

The team consisting of Mrs. Pickin, Mrs. Nate Caplan, Mrs. M. Burnett and Mrs. A. Babb shot a 31-30-61.

Midland USW Shoots For Third Straight

13 Teams Left To Battle For Non-Pro Title

Midland USW, the 1959 Pennsylvania Non-Pro champion, will go after its third straight victory tonight in the 8 o'clock contest at Midland's Crucible Field.

Manager Art Petrosky said he will split his pitching chores up tonight among three hurlers. Bob Trice will hurl at least three innings. Trice formerly pitched for the old Philadelphia Athletics. He is from New Cumberland.

Two other games are set with Moses Service of New Castle meeting upset-minded Piney Fork. Piney Fork pulled a surprise Wednesday by knocking off Ford City.

Thursday night a strong Aliquippa J & L team eliminated Wellsburg, 11-5, while Shannock A. C. was knocked out of the tournament in a 9-0 loss to West Kittaning.

Only 13 teams remain in the tourney and three squads still remain undefeated. Midland, Levittown and Wampum all have recorded two straight victories.

2 Cleveland Tracks Sold

CLEVELAND (AP) — Stockholders of Cleveland Raceways, Inc., Thursday approved the sale of Thistledown and Cranwood race tracks to Edward J. De Bartolo, a Youngstown building executive, for $5,750,000.

The sale previously had been approved by the board of directors.

De Bartolo will not take over the franchises of the race tracks until next year. At that time he hopes to transfer the Cranwood franchise to Thistledown.

Henry Gottfried, president of Cleveland Raceways, said the shareholders also voted to liquidate and dissolve the corporation. He added that the present management would continue to run the company until the sale is consummated before March of 1960.

Transfer of the racing permits is subject to approval of the Ohio Racing Commission.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching — Brooks Lawrence and Bob Purkey, Reds, checked the Braves on three hits for 6-2 victory with Lawrence the winner, allowing only a single in a scoreless, three-inning mopup after Purkey was lifted for a pinch-hitter.

Hitting — Minnie Minoso, Indians, powered Cleveland within a half game of first place with a grand-slam home run that overhauled a Yankee lead in a seven-run sixth inning for an 8-5 victory.

The Boston Celtics beat the Minneapolis Lakers nine times in as many National Basketball Assn. games last season.

Brown Talks To Gridders

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—Coach Paul Brown told the 57 players at the opening of the Cleveland Browns' training camp here Thursday that football must be "the biggest thing in your life" for the next four and a half months.

Emphasizing that he was talking to the older players as well as the rookies, the coach said:

"If you're an older player and have reached the point where you can't concentrate on what I have to say, maybe you've reached the point where you ought to be looking for other work . . ."

He said he would try to peddle the players who think about football only when they step onto the field.

"In this game, more men fail mentally than physically," he he said.

Three players—Bobby Mitchell, Bob Brodhead and Ron Nietupski—will report late because of Army duty.

Five others are with the College All Stars, who will play the professional football champion Baltimore Colts in Chicago next month. The players who will report here after the All - Star game are Francis O'Brien, Dick Schafrath, Rich Kreitling, Bob Ptacek and John Wooten.

Injury Clinic Set On Aug 6 At Wheeling

An Athletic Injury Conference—first of its kind ever to be staged in the Ohio Valley—has been announced by the Ohio County Medical Society.

The Conference, which is expected to attract some 200 coaches and other high school officials connected with the scholastic athletic program, will be held August 6 in the auditorium of the nurses home at Wheeling Hospital.

Dr. C. B. Buffington, president of the Ohio County Medical Society who also will act as moderator of the Conference, said the need for such a gathering has been apparent for some time now. Many other sections of the country have instituted such conferences on a yearly schedule to help acquaint coaches with some of the problems on injuries — not only on how to prevent them but also how to care for the young athlete after he has been hurt.

The idea is an outgrowth of a series on athletic injuries last fall by Wheeling News-Register Sports Editor Cliff McWilliams.

Dr. Buffington said a list of speakers will be announced as soon as all arrangements have been completed. The speakers, for the most part, will be specialists in the various fields which are likely to be most pertinent to injuries of athletes of high school age.

Out Of The Air

What Television Is For

Janet Blair singing "It's Nice To Go Traveling" more or less set the theme for last Sunday's television. There was an awful lot of it going on and it's fine with me.

John Crosby

The Chevrolet commercials on the same show, for instance, showed a Chevvy on tape wandering through Paris down the Left Bank, through the Place de la Concorde, and down side streets where flower vendors poked their heads through the window. And in color yet!

As someone remarked, it's getting awfully hard for the show to follow the commercials. The Chevvy commercial — a car wandering around without a driver—has been used before and, as commercials go, it's one of the best. Perhaps it's just wishful thinking, but it does seem to me that an era of candor in advertising is abroad in TV.

IN MY NAIVE WAY, I always had throught that a product ought to advertise its primary virtue.

For instance, a soap's prime function is to get you clean and I thought they ought to advertise that. But no. Soap ads continued to boast the soap would make you 10 years younger or it would get a girl for you or stop body odors or anything except get you clean.

But now these Mr. Clean commercials come along. Not only does the name of the thing salute cleanliness, but the whole body of the commercial is a paean to cleanliness — a virtue which was never even considered in the old soap ads.

Similarly, a car's chief purpose in life (I thought) was to get you around. But you'd never guess it from the ads. You bought a car for the torsion-free hydraflugs. Or maybe you were entranced by the dynaflow with the automatic thrust. Or split-action forward look.

But now Chevy emphasizes the car will get you there. If you're in Paris, you can see the town in your car.

And a cleaner advertises that it'll clean your house and everything in it.

THIS HAS the simplicity of great sophistication. It won't last, of course, but while it does, I applaud it. Maybe we even can look forward to the day when a watch will be advertised not because it's embraceable or because it can swim under water like a fish or because distinguished people wear it, but simply because it tells time.

To get back to the travel theme, the Ed Sullivan show was a taped tidbit from Spoleto, Italy, featuring Gian Carlo Menotti's Festival of Two Worlds.

To my great regret, I didn't see all of it. What I did see was wonderful. There was Nora Kaye in an excerpt from the "Romeo and Juliet" ballet. There was a marvellous bit of choreography by the John Butler dancers and a bit of opera from Eileen Farrell.

All these things were done against the settings of ancient ruins and the picture quality in natural sunlight was unbelievably good. This is where tape has film lashed to the mast.

Also, to get as simple-minded as I dare, I get an old-fashioned kick out of seeing Roman ruins as a backdrop for some good-looking dancers, a kick I wouldn't get on a CBS stage from New York.

Sullivan has been to Alaska, Brussels, Portugal and Ireland, and the Sullivan show will come from Moscow, Japan, South America and Mexico some time in the future.

They haven't always been marvelous shows, but they are invariably interesting ones. This is what television is for, I keep thinking, and we can't get too much of it.

"The CBS Television network," it says, "has just completed negotiations with the Italian Olympic national committee for the exclusive North American rights to broadcast the full coverage of the Olympics.

"The games will last 18 days and each night, in a kind of modern-day marathon, the network will bring you, via video tape and jet airplane, the events that took place earlier that day 4,281 miles away."

But along with North Americans, millions of Europeans and Russains and Scandinavians will be watching the games, too, and I can't help but think this is international relations at its best.

Sunday we had the top Russian athletes televised from Philadelphia; next year the world will see our athletes and the Russians at Rome.

"You'll see," the ad tells us, "the Pentathlon events in the Stadium of the Marbles. And you'll see some pretty spectacular pictures of the Eternal City with the Seven Hills, and the winding Tiber, and the Ponte Palatino, that famous bridge where Horatio stood."

5 Speeders Arrested By Radar At Chester

Five area motorists, cited for speeding in a radar check on Virginia Ave., Chester, were fined $10 and costs each Thursday night by Mayor Burton Ward.

They were John T. Lawrence of Hammondsville, Jack Boyd of Chester and Mrs. Corrine Richards of Jackson St., David Hornick, 1743 Etruria St., and Delbert Freeman of M. C. Route 20, all of East Liverpool.

They were cited by Chester police in a 25-mile zone, and all pleaded guilty.

House Action On GI Bill May Be Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The GI Bill for peacetime veterans, passed Tuesday by the Senate, may have to wait until next year for House consideration.

The chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, Rep. Orlin Teague (D-Tex), said in an interview today that he opposes its passage now.

To get House approval, Teague said his committee would have to hold hearings on the legislation. He added: "I don't propose to hold hearings this year. I don't want to be a party to sending a GI Bill to the White House which is almost certain to be vetoed by the President."

The GI Bill as passed by the Senate would provide two major benefits to men who entered military service after Jan. 31, 1955, or will be entering service before July 1, 1963. They are:

1. An education and training program similar to that provided Korean War veterans, except that the government allowances to help pay for the schooling in some cases would be made as interest free loans rather than as cash gifts.

2. A GI loan program similar to those for World War II and Korean veterans.

In St. Joe You Can Buy Beer On Sunday, But Peanuts? No!

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — If you're in St. Joseph Sunday and would like a beer, you'll have no trouble buying it. But just try to buy a sack of peanuts to nibble on. Or a package of cigarettes.

A new city ordinance governing business on Sunday was adopted recently by the City Council of St. Joseph, a city of 78,588 in northwest Missouri.

It was drafted by City Atty. Fred E. Schoenlaub and his staff of five to liberalize an old blue law which said, in effect, don't buy, don't sell and don't play on Sunday.

The new version exempts businesses which provide emergency, necessary or recreational services. Hospitals, hotels, service stations, drug stores, theater and restaurants are among those businesses allowed to open on Sunday.

But drug stores can sell only medicines. Groceries can sell fresh produce, dairy products and soft drinks but not packaged foods such as peanuts. And service stations can sell only gasoline and oil.

Legally, you can't buy tobacco in any form — or matches for that matter. You can buy oil for your car, but not an oil filter. You can buy a soft drink or an ice cream bar at the movies—but no popcorn.

And, you can buy 3.2 per cent beer. Restaurants are exempt. Missouri law requires all taverns to serve food.

Castro To Play Baseball Game In Support Of Reform Plan

Beard, olive drab uniform, military boots and all, Castro is scheduled to pitch at least part of a five-inning contest between his soldiers and his police. Proceeds from the game go to the agrarian fund, which is to help peasants get started on the lands Castro seizes from big owners and gives to the landless.

The game is part of the 26th of July revolutionary movement's anniversary celebration which reaches its peak Sunday. A half million peasants are then expected to jam vast Plaza Civica to shout support for Castro's program.

They will also "decide" whether or not their revolutionary leader resumes the post as Cuba's premier. The peasant's decision is certain to be unanimously affirmative, just as it was last February when Castro summoned an estimated 300,000 to another giant rally and asked whether they wanted executions of so-called war criminals continued.

Widowed Mother Of Three Chosen Secretary Of Year

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The nation's newly selected Secretary of the Year came here with the conviction she didn't have a chance to win that honor.

"I was told I had two strikes against me because I came from New York," said blonde 49-year-old Alicia Cogan.

The widowed mother of three grown children was crowned as the country's top secretary Thursday over five other finalists at the 14th annual convention of the National Secretaries Assn.

Mrs. Cogan, who says loyalty and thorough knowledge of typing, shorthand and filing are the prime requirements for a good office aide, is secretary to Edger J. Buttenheim, chairman of the board of the Buttenheim Publishing Corp., New York. She has held the post for 17 years.

Julie Lawler, personal secretary to Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, was runner - up. Third place went to Agnes Brown of Indianapolis, secretary to the president of the American States Insurance Co.

Other finalists were Barbara Brett, Riverton, N.J.; Louise Dahms, Kankakee, Ill.; and Edna Davis, Cincinnati, Ohio.

A breakdown shows 1,745 pounds of butter, 1,265 pounds of rice, 4,126 pounds of dried milk and 7,380 pounds of flour.

No dates have been set as yet for the August distribution.

Officer Cites Young Driver On 3 Charges

An 18-year-old East Palestine driver was fined a total of $35 and costs today in Municipal Court on three charges filed as the aftermath of his arrest early this morning in East Liverpool and a 34-year-old West Point man forfeited $31 on a reckless driving charge after he was taken into custody on a warrant.

John Gary Hill, who gave his address as East Palestine general delivery, was fined $10 and costs on each of two charges — crashing a traffic light at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St. and ignoring a stop sign at State St. and the River Rd. — and $5 and costs for operating an auto with a defective muffler.

He pleaded guilty to all three before Acting Judge Robert A. Kapp. Police said Hill was cited at 2 this morning by Patrolman Charles E. (Bill) Tice.

William James Vietmeier of West Point forfeited the $31 bond after Patrolman Jack Strobel took him into custody on a warrant on the reckless driving charge. Vietmeier originally was cited early Saturday and instructed to be in court the same morning, but he failed to appear, police said.

Patrolman Strobel's affidavit alleged that Vietmeier's auto rounded a corner from E. 6th St. onto St. Clair Ave. "at a high rate of speed, with the tires screeching." Then Vietmeier drove "up St. Clair Ave. at a high rate of speed and recklessly turned the bend at St. Clair Ave. and Walnut St.," it added. As part of the same charge, he was accused of rounding the turn at St. Clair and McKinnon Aves. on North Side "at a high rate of speed."

James Goodrich of East Orville forfeited a $16 bond today on a charge of driving left of center, speeding 43 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone and passing on the approach to a curve, hillcrest and intersection. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol Saturday at 9:55 p. m. on Route 30.

Two Youngstown men were cited Thursday night by the patrol on charges of passing at intersections. Robert Huffman, cited on Route 30, posted an $11 bond for appearance Monday. Edward Michel is due for a hearing today. He was arrested on Route 170.

Pioneer In Use Of X-ray OK In 92nd Operation

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Emil F. Grubbe, 84, pioneer in the use of X-ray to fight cancer, was reported in good condition today after undergoing his 92nd operation for cancer, caused by his overexposure to the rays.

The noted physician was in surgery three hours Thursday in Swedish Covenant Hospital. Surgeons removed the index and little fingers of his right hand and then cut a cancerous mass the size of a lemon from under his right arm.

Dr. Grubbe had lost his left hand and large portions of his jaw and nose in previous operations.

The cancer was induced by X-ray burns he suffered in 1895 while he was experimenting.

Better Health Through Knowledge

Breast Lumps Dangerous— Male or Female

● Penicillin in Milk

Q. I am a man 76 years old. I have a lump under the right nipple that is at times quite painful. What could this be? —S.

A. The inquirer has probably consulted a physician by now so this reply may serve only to emphasize a situation with which many people are unfamiliar. The small and undeveloped male breast is rarely afflicted with conditions that beset the more highly developed female breast but all breast lumps should be investigated—male or female. Serious conditions such as breast cancer are not unknown in men of all ages and even in boys. Not so long ago a physician told of seeing a 15-year-old lad who had noticed a lump beneath the left nipple. Following a football injury the lump became quite tender and a doctor was consulted. Surgery was performed and radium used but to no avail. The cancer had gone too far. The moral is—never ignore a breast lump—male or female.

Q. I have heard that much of our milk supply contains penicillin. How does it get into milk and is it harmful to drink such milk?

A. It is estimated that one out of four dairy cows in the U. S. has mastitis. Because the udder condition cuts down milk production, dairy farmers treat infected cows with penicillin. The antibiotic is later secreted in the milk. The Food and Drug Administration has recommended that milk containing antibiotics be considered "adulterated." Penicillin-containing milk and other dairy products can cause allergic reactions in certain persons. There may be other as yet unknown harmful effects of consuming small amounts of antibiotic via food products. The problem is under study and should be solved as quickly as possible.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

What Television Is For

Janet Blair singing "It's Nice To Go Traveling" more or less set the theme for last Sunday's television. There was an awful lot of it going on and it's fine with me.

John Crosby

The Chevrolet commercials on the same show, for instance, showed a Chevvy on tape wandering through Paris down the Left Bank, through the Place de la Concorde, and down side streets where flower vendors poked their heads through the window. And in color yet!

As someone remarked, it's getting awfully hard for the show to follow the commercials. The Chevvy commercial — a car wandering around without a driver—has been used before and, as commercials go, it's one of the best. Perhaps it's just wishful thinking, but it does seem to me that an era of candor in advertising is abroad in TV.

IN MY NAIVE WAY, I always had throught that a product ought to advertise its primary virtue.

For instance, a soap's prime function is to get you clean and I thought they ought to advertise that. But no. Soap ads continued to boast the soap would make you 10 years younger or it would get a girl for you or stop body odors or anything except get you clean.

But now these Mr. Clean commercials come along. Not only does the name of the thing salute cleanliness, but the whole body of the commercial is a paean to cleanliness — a virtue which was never even considered in the old soap ads.

Similarly, a car's chief purpose in life (I thought) was to get you around. But you'd never guess it from the ads. You bought a car for the torsion-free hydraflugs. Or maybe you were entranced by the dynaflow with the automatic thrust. Or split-action forward look.

But now Chevy emphasizes the car will get you there. If you're in Paris, you can see the town in your car.

And a cleaner advertises that it'll clean your house and everything in it.

THIS HAS the simplicity of great sophistication. It won't last, of course, but while it does, I applaud it. Maybe we even can look forward to the day when a watch will be advertised not because it's embraceable or because it can swim under water like a fish or because distinguished people wear it, but simply because it tells time.

To get back to the travel theme, the Ed Sullivan show was a taped tidbit from Spoleto, Italy, featuring Gian Carlo Menotti's Festival of Two Worlds.

To my great regret, I didn't see all of it. What I did see was wonderful. There was Nora Kaye in an excerpt from the "Romeo and Juliet" ballet. There was a marvellous bit of choreography by the John Butler dancers and a bit of opera from Eileen Farrell.

All these things were done against the settings of ancient ruins and the picture quality in natural sunlight was unbelievably good. This is where tape has film lashed to the mast.

Also, to get as simple-minded as I dare, I get an old-fashioned kick out of seeing Roman ruins as a backdrop for some good-looking dancers, a kick I wouldn't get on a CBS stage from New York.

Sullivan has been to Alaska, Brussels, Portugal and Ireland, and the Sullivan show will come from Moscow, Japan, South America and Mexico some time in the future.

They haven't always been marvelous shows, but they are invariably interesting ones. This is what television is for, I keep thinking, and we can't get too much of it.

"The CBS Television network," it says, "has just completed negotiations with the Italian Olympic national committee for the exclusive North American rights to broadcast the full coverage of the Olympics.

"The games will last 18 days and each night, in a kind of modern-day marathon, the network will bring you, via video tape and jet airplane, the events that took place earlier that day 4,281 miles away."

But along with North Americans, millions of Europeans and Russains and Scandinavians will be watching the games, too, and I can't help but think this is international relations at its best.

Sunday we had the top Russian athletes televised from Philadelphia; next year the world will see our athletes and the Russians at Rome.

"You'll see," the ad tells us, "the Pentathlon events in the Stadium of the Marbles. And you'll see some pretty spectacular pictures of the Eternal City with the Seven Hills, and the winding Tiber, and the Ponte Palatino, that famous bridge where Horatio stood."

5 Speeders Arrested By Radar At Chester

Five area motorists, cited for speeding in a radar check on Virginia Ave., Chester, were fined $10 and costs each Thursday night by Mayor Burton Ward.

They were John T. Lawrence of Hammondsville, Jack Boyd of Chester and Mrs. Corrine Richards of Jackson St., David Hornick, 1743 Etruria St., and Delbert Freeman of M. C. Route 20, all of East Liverpool.

They were cited by Chester police in a 25-mile zone, and all pleaded guilty.

House Action On GI Bill May Be Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The GI Bill for peacetime veterans, passed Tuesday by the Senate, may have to wait until next year for House consideration.

The chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, Rep. Orlin Teague (D-Tex), said in an interview today that he opposes its passage now.

To get House approval, Teague said his committee would have to hold hearings on the legislation. He added: "I don't propose to hold hearings this year. I don't want to be a party to sending a GI Bill to the White House which is almost certain to be vetoed by the President."

The GI Bill as passed by the Senate would provide two major benefits to men who entered military service after Jan. 31, 1955, or will be entering service before July 1, 1963. They are:

1. An education and training program similar to that provided Korean War veterans, except that the government allowances to help pay for the schooling in some cases would be made as interest free loans rather than as cash gifts.

2. A GI loan program similar to those for World War II and Korean veterans.

In St. Joe You Can Buy Beer On Sunday, But Peanuts? No!

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — If you're in St. Joseph Sunday and would like a beer, you'll have no trouble buying it. But just try to buy a sack of peanuts to nibble on. Or a package of cigarettes.

A new city ordinance governing business on Sunday was adopted recently by the City Council of St. Joseph, a city of 78,588 in northwest Missouri.

It was drafted by City Atty. Fred E. Schoenlaub and his staff of five to liberalize an old blue law which said, in effect, don't buy, don't sell and don't play on Sunday.

The new version exempts businesses which provide emergency, necessary or recreational services. Hospitals, hotels, service stations, drug stores, theater and restaurants are among those businesses allowed to open on Sunday.

But drug stores can sell only medicines. Groceries can sell fresh produce, dairy products and soft drinks but not packaged foods such as peanuts. And service stations can sell only gasoline and oil.

Legally, you can't buy tobacco in any form — or matches for that matter. You can buy oil for your car, but not an oil filter. You can buy a soft drink or an ice cream bar at the movies—but no popcorn.

And, you can buy 3.2 per cent beer. Restaurants are exempt. Missouri law requires all taverns to serve food.

Castro To Play Baseball Game In Support Of Reform Plan

Beard, olive drab uniform, military boots and all, Castro is scheduled to pitch at least part of a five-inning contest between his soldiers and his police. Proceeds from the game go to the agrarian fund, which is to help peasants get started on the lands Castro seizes from big owners and gives to the landless.

The game is part of the 26th of July revolutionary movement's anniversary celebration which reaches its peak Sunday. A half million peasants are then expected to jam vast Plaza Civica to shout support for Castro's program.

They will also "decide" whether or not their revolutionary leader resumes the post as Cuba's premier. The peasant's decision is certain to be unanimously affirmative, just as it was last February when Castro summoned an estimated 300,000 to another giant rally and asked whether they wanted executions of so-called war criminals continued.

Widowed Mother Of Three Chosen Secretary Of Year

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The nation's newly selected Secretary of the Year came here with the conviction she didn't have a chance to win that honor.

"I was told I had two strikes against me because I came from New York," said blonde 49-year-old Alicia Cogan.

The widowed mother of three grown children was crowned as the country's top secretary Thursday over five other finalists at the 14th annual convention of the National Secretaries Assn.

Mrs. Cogan, who says loyalty and thorough knowledge of typing, shorthand and filing are the prime requirements for a good office aide, is secretary to Edger J. Buttenheim, chairman of the board of the Buttenheim Publishing Corp., New York. She has held the post for 17 years.

Julie Lawler, personal secretary to Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, was runner - up. Third place went to Agnes Brown of Indianapolis, secretary to the president of the American States Insurance Co.

Officer Cites Young Driver On 3 Charges

An 18-year-old East Palestine driver was fined a total of $35 and costs today in Municipal Court on three charges filed as the aftermath of his arrest early this morning in East Liverpool and a 34-year-old West Point man forfeited $31 on a reckless driving charge after he was taken into custody on a warrant.

John Gary Hill, who gave his address as East Palestine general delivery, was fined $10 and costs on each of two charges — crashing a traffic light at Pennsylvania Ave. and Boyce St. and ignoring a stop sign at State St. and the River Rd. — and $5 and costs for operating an auto with a defective muffler.

He pleaded guilty to all three before Acting Judge Robert A. Kapp. Police said Hill was cited at 2 this morning by Patrolman Charles E. (Bill) Tice.

William James Vietmeier of West Point forfeited the $31 bond after Patrolman Jack Strobel took him into custody on a warrant on the reckless driving charge. Vietmeier originally was cited early Saturday and instructed to be in court the same morning, but he failed to appear, police said.

Patrolman Strobel's affidavit alleged that Vietmeier's auto rounded a corner from E. 6th St. onto St. Clair Ave. "at a high rate of speed, with the tires screeching." Then Vietmeier drove "up St. Clair Ave. at a high rate of speed and recklessly turned the bend at St. Clair Ave. and Walnut St.," it added. As part of the same charge, he was accused of rounding the turn at St. Clair and McKinnon Aves. on North Side "at a high rate of speed."

James Goodrich of East Orville forfeited a $16 bond today on a charge of driving left of center, speeding 43 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone and passing on the approach to a curve, hillcrest and intersection. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol Saturday at 9:55 p. m. on Route 30.

Two Youngstown men were cited Thursday night by the patrol on charges of passing at intersections. Robert Huffman, cited on Route 30, posted an $11 bond for appearance Monday. Edward Michel is due for a hearing today. He was arrested on Route 170.

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Emil F. Grubbe, 84, pioneer in the use of X-ray to fight cancer, was reported in good condition today after undergoing his 92nd operation for cancer, caused by his overexposure to the rays.

The noted physician was in surgery three hours Thursday in Swedish Covenant Hospital. Surgeons removed the index and little fingers of his right hand and then cut a cancerous mass the size of a lemon from under his right arm.

The cancer was induced by X-ray burns he suffered in 1895 while he was experimenting.

Concession stands will be operated by the firemen, the Lions Club, the American Legion Post 121 auxiliary, the Chester High School cheerleaders, Lawrenceville firemen, the Post 121 burial squad, the Chester Band Mothers and the Chester Football Mothers and other groups.

The crate derby will be held on the Indiana Ave. hill between 3rd and 4th Sts., with $10 first prizes in 3 weight groups. There also will be $5 second prizes and $3 third prizes, Dino Rossi, derby chairman, said.

The four-wheeled carts will be built by the participants and will not exceed 250 pounds with the rider. Inspection will be held in the forenoon at 10 at the Faulk Feed Store of Carolina Ave.

Lawrenceville Unit Plans 3 Concessions

Plans for sponsoring three concession stands at the Chester firemen's fair next week were outlined at a meeting of the Lawrenceville firemen Thursday night at the fire station.

Proceeds will be used toward payment of a new fire truck to be delivered later this year. Plans were also reviewed for an ice cream festival in August.

The weekly community auction will be held Saturday at the fire station. Lawrence Haun, president, was in charge. The next meeting will be Aug. 9.

Breast Lumps Dangerous— Male or Female

● Penicillin in Milk

Q. I am a man 76 years old. I have a lump under the right nipple that is at times quite painful. What could this be? —S.

A. The inquirer has probably consulted a physician by now so this reply may serve only to emphasize a situation with which many people are unfamiliar. The small and undeveloped male breast is rarely afflicted with conditions that beset the more highly developed female breast but all breast lumps should be investigated—male or female. Serious conditions such as breast cancer are not unknown in men of all ages and even in boys. Not so long ago a physician told of seeing a 15-year-old lad who had noticed a lump beneath the left nipple. Following a football injury the lump became quite tender and a doctor was consulted. Surgery was performed and radium used but to no avail. The cancer had gone too far. The moral is—never ignore a breast lump—male or female.

Q. I have heard that much of our milk supply contains penicillin. How does it get into milk and is it harmful to drink such milk?

A. It is estimated that one out of four dairy cows in the U. S. has mastitis. Because the udder condition cuts down milk production, dairy farmers treat infected cows with penicillin. The antibiotic is later secreted in the milk. The Food and Drug Administration has recommended that milk containing antibiotics be considered "adulterated." Penicillin-containing milk and other dairy products can cause allergic reactions in certain persons. There may be other as yet unknown harmful effects of consuming small amounts of antibiotic via food products. The problem is under study and should be solved as quickly as possible.

Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician. Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.

the two days of travel and terror. A second young man was in the car where she was thrown, gagged, bound blindfolded and covered with a blanket.

She estimated they drove most of the time since Wednesday. At times she heard what sounded like coins dropping into automatic toll road gates, she said.

Miss Hart said the men drove almost continuously until sometime Thursday when the car pulled into a driveway. She was shoved up several steps into what she found to be a bathroom, the young woman said.

About two hours later, Miss Hart said, she heard the men conversing. "Ed we're going to get a lot of money out of this," she quoted one.

"We gotta get rid of her, Ed, she's too hot," one was quoted as saying a few minutes later. She reported one of the men then entered her bathroom prison and said:

"My friend is chicken. We gotta get rid of you."

Still later — she didn't remember exactly how long—the two men put her in the car once again and drove for about two hours. Miss Hart said she was shoved from the auto by one of the men who snarled:

At first she told Lt. Charles Pierson she was tossed into the bathroom "a few hours" after being abducted from the airport in Newark. But as she regained her composure, she related a more coherent account.

She refused medical attention and declined to be examined, pending arrival of her father, Ralph, from the family's Short Hills, N.J., home. She told officers and a police matron she had not been molested sexually. Her grey sheath dress was not torn or disarranged.

A diamond brooch, her engagement ring from Gaines and all identification had been taken by the time she wandered into the police car.

Police said bruises across her upper arms could have been caused by her manhandling captors or by the rags which were used to bind her for the two-day period.

Miss Hart, who carried only $5 in her purse when she was found, told Pierson she remembered the two men talking about a lot of stops because of tollways.

But she gave neither police nor FBI investigator, who was immediately called in, any description of either man.

Ohio Farmers Reject Wheat Controls Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—By a slim margin Ohio farmers have rejected a proposal to continue federal controls in the 1960 wheat crop.

Ohio's unofficial vote Thursday was 2,531 against and 2,467 for the controls. An estimated 45,000 farmers were eligible to vote in Ohio.

In effect, Ohio growers turned down the legal minimum of 55 million acres with marketing quotas based on these allotments and price supports at a minimum of 75 per cent of parity. This is $1.77.

The alternative is no controls and price support of 50 per cent of parity available only to growers complying with their share of the acreage allotment.

Farmers In County Reject Quotas, 2-29

LISBON — Columbiana County farmers voted 29 against and 2 for in the national wheat marketing quota referendum Thursday at the Columbiana County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Office in the Farmers Bank Building.

Last year's vote was 12 against and 4 for. Only 31 voted yesterday and only 16 last year, according to Everett A. Fishel of East Rochester, chairman of the ASC committee.

BEAVER — Although 15 Beaver County farmers were eligible, none voted Thursday on marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop, the Beaver County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee reported.

the two days of travel and terror. A second young man was in the car where she was thrown, gagged, bound blindfolded and covered with a blanket.

Whenver she moved, Miss Hart said, one of the men kicked her in the side.

She estimated they drove most of the time since Wednesday. At times she heard what sounded like coins dropping into automatic toll road gates, she said.

Miss Hart said the men drove almost continuously until sometime Thursday when the car pulled into a driveway. She was shoved up several steps into what she found to be a bathroom, the young woman said.

About two hours later, Miss Hart said, she heard the men conversing. "Ed we're going to get a lot of money out of this," she quoted one.

"We gotta get rid of her, Ed, she's too hot," one was quoted as saying a few minutes later. She reported one of the men then entered her bathroom prison and said:

"My friend is chicken. We gotta get rid of you."

Still later — she didn't remember exactly how long—the two men put her in the car once again and drove for about two hours. Miss Hart said she was shoved from the auto by one of the men who snarled:

"Don't turn around or look back. I've got a gun and I'll kill you."

At first she told Lt. Charles Pierson she was tossed into the bathroom "a few hours" after being abducted from the airport in Newark. But as she regained her composure, she related a more coherent account.

She refused medical attention and declined to be examined, pending arrival of her father, Ralph, from the family's Short Hills, N.J., home. She told officers and a police matron she had not been molested sexually. Her grey sheath dress was not torn or disarranged.

A diamond brooch, her engagement ring from Gaines and all identification had been taken by the time she wandered into the police car.

Police gave her a cup of coffee and two aspirin tablets, and she slept briefly.

Police said bruises across her upper arms could have been caused by her manhandling captors or by the rags which were used to bind her for the two-day period.

Miss Hart, who carried only $5 in her purse when she was found, told Pierson she remembered the two men talking about a lot of stops because of tollways.

But she gave neither police nor FBI investigator, who was immediately called in, any description of either man.

Ohio Farmers Reject Wheat Controls Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—By a slim margin Ohio farmers have rejected a proposal to continue federal controls in the 1960 wheat crop.

Unofficial tallies showed 50.6 per cent voted against the controls. But, national totals will tell the tale.

Ohio's unofficial vote Thursday was 2,531 against and 2,467 for the controls. An estimated 45,000 farmers were eligible to vote in Ohio.

In effect, Ohio growers turned down the legal minimum of 55 million acres with marketing quotas based on these allotments and price supports at a minimum of 75 per cent of parity. This is $1.77.

The alternative is no controls and price support of 50 per cent of parity available only to growers complying with their share of the acreage allotment.

Farmers In County Reject Quotas, 2-29

LISBON — Columbiana County farmers voted 29 against and 2 for in the national wheat marketing quota referendum Thursday at the Columbiana County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Office in the Farmers Bank Building.

Last year's vote was 12 against and 4 for. Only 31 voted yesterday and only 16 last year, according to Everett A. Fishel of East Rochester, chairman of the ASC committee.

BEAVER — Although 15 Beaver County farmers were eligible, none voted Thursday on marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop, the Beaver County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee reported.

Men On 'Hero Board' Test Ocean's Water Conditions

By LEONARD ENGEL
Copyright, 1959
By The Associated Press

ABOARD RESEARCH VESSEL VEMA (AP)—The men call it the hero board, because "you feel like a bloody hero after you've been out on it in bad weather."

It's a swaying, slender pivoted board that projects out over the side of the far-ranging Columbia University research ship Vema—two thirds of the way aft along the starboard side, and seven feet above the deck.

The swaying plank's proper name is the hydro board. It's used for attaching record thermometers and water sample bottles to a wire cable that carries them down to the bowels of the ocean, miles below.

In the weeks I was on Vema, someone was out on the hero board almost every day, sending down and retrieving thermometers and bottles. Vema and three other research ships were cruising the Atlantic north of Puerto Rico, looking for a site for the Mohole, the miles-deep hole that is to be drilled through the earth's crust beneath the sea. Knowledge of water conditions is indispensable to the Mohole project.

Moreover, ocean research ships send down thermometers and bottles wherever they go. For water samples and temperature measurements provide clues to one of the most important and most mysterious regions on earth—the region below the surface of the sea.

Oceans cover more than 70 per cent of the earth's surface and contain an almost inconceivably vast mass of water—over 320 million cubic miles of it. Hidden within this huge "inner space" is more life than exists on land—much of it still unknown.

Hidden in the "inner space," too, are currents mightier than hundreds of Mississippis, transporting tropical warmth to one shore and chilling cold to another. Recent studies have even connected the oceans with the Ice Ages. Warm Atlantic currents helped bring the glaciers that buried the continents by melting the arctic ice and converting dry arctic winds to wet, snow-bearing ones.

Oceanographers probe many aspects of the sea simultaneously. Almost all research ships, for example, are constantly on the lookout for new species of marine life.

Early on its present voyage, Vema went fishing for a "sea monster"—the adult form of a recently discovered outside eel larva, whose adult form could easily be of sea monster size. No monster was caught, though something of great size and strength struck and straightened out the heavy six-inch iron hook Vema had put down.

And Vema's biology trawl did bring back, off Central America, five specimens of a marine worm belonging to a family thought extinct for 300 million years.

As a result, ocean researchers have been able to work out the main patterns of ocean water flow. Warm water flows along the surface of the ocean from the equator to the poles. Cold water flows back again down below, near the bottom.

Bringing Up A Family

Children Learn Best When Happy

Over the years, I have pointed out, in this column, that the baby tends to make most progress in learning, especially at walking and talking, when he feels happy, especially toward the mother or other persons he is with. When angry and out of sorts, he may kick and strike, repeating old patterns of motion or just sit and howl. It's when he feels good that he makes new ventures at walking. When he cries, he may repeat a narrow repertoire of sounds he has made before, but it's when he's happy that he keeps adding new sounds, as in his coos and babbles. The first sound the baby makes is crying. But during the first few weeks he also begins to make comfort sounds through his pleasure over taking food. As more weeks and months go by these comfort sounds increase in coos and babbles.

By Garry Meyers

FLORA RHETA Shreiber, in her current book "Your Child's Speech" (Putnam) makes much of the baby's comfort sounds in his early speech development.

"Babbling is a happy, spontaneous utterance during which the infant forms many, many sounds at random, many more than he will ever use once he actually talks. In the course of his babbling he forms all the vowels and consonants of which adult language is comprised — not only of his own language but of other languages as well."

Then comes the time between five and nine months of age, when the baby repeats some of the sounds he has made at random, which, presumably, he likes most. He may seem to make almost endless repetitions consisting of the same sounds used as two, three or more syllables — da-da-da-da-da or ma-ma-ma-ma-ma.

HIS PARENTS, supposing he is saying Dada or Mama, imitate him. By and by this infant may be saying these words with meaning. So his parents may say, after the baby, other words he had at random innocently uttered and connected with purpose later.

Surely this becomes an easy step to deliberate imitations by this little child of all sorts of sounds he hears and likes. The more he likes the person from which a sound comes, the more ready he is to imitate it.

The moral for Mother and Father is obvious. Parents should not suppose, however, that letting the baby and young child always have what he wants and always doing as he pleases will guarantee his happiness and fondness for them.

My bulletins, "Love and Restraint" and "The Young Child's Speech," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Keep In Trim

Weekend Offers Diet Challenge

Keep your slimming rhythm this week-end. Here is a challenge to help you stay on the beam. When tempted to say, "just this once won't matter," gaily switch to "No, thank you!" By taking that positive attitude, you are saying a resounding "yes" to a shapely figure. Psychologists explain that every time you make an exception, you lose ground and go back nearly to where you started. Don't break the rhythm.

Ida Jean Kain

A slim girl who had been imprisoned in 40 excess pounds and a size 20½ is now set free. The sheer joy of living, expressed in her triumphant letter, will inspire you. She wrote:

"Buying new clothes in size 16 is a wonderful adventure - wearing them is even more fun. It's hard to remember the cream pie you turned down when you are hearing compliments on how much younger you look. It's wonderful, too, to get used to looking at a slender you who stands tall, rather than a fatty who slumped to try to minimize her size.

To be able to run lightly upstairs without huffing and puffing is a joy." But the greatest and most exciting part is the new sense of well being. Joints are no longer swollen and puffy, and there is pleasure in every motion, after the burden of weight is lifted."

McDonald Sees Strike End When 'We Get Fair Split'

By NORMAN WALKER

NEW YORK (AP) —The steel strike, says the man directing the walkout, won't end until companies agree to a fair split of increased profits with their half-million workers.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, thumbed pages of a newspaper to a short inside article saying a small steel firm had netted almost as much profit in six months this year as the company's highest full-year earnings record.

"It's fantastic," said McDonald. "Wait until the big steel companies file their profits reports next week. You'll see. They're going to have to share that money with us.

"It has always happened that way. And we intend to see it continues."

McDonald's views were as fixed and unyielding on the union side as were those expressed for the industry earlier to the same interviewer by Chairman Roger Blough of the United States Steel Corp.

Talks with the two men, equally firm in their stands in the titanic labor-management clash that has shut down most of the nation's vast steel industry, pinpointed the issues.

The industry is dead set against any new net labor cost increase. The union says the workers deserve—and are going to get—higher pay and companion benefits.

McDonald said the industry is trying to cut its work force, whereas steel employment should be increasing to meet the expanding metal needs of America and countries abroad.

"We are being pictured by the industry as opposing progress and efficiency," McDonald said. "I repeat what I've said: the claim is as phony as a seven-dollar bill. The industry's whole position is based on misrepresentation and distortion of the facts."

The union, said this dapper, well-tailored, prematurely gray union boss, looking for all the world like a top industry executive, has never opposed automation or technical progress.

McDonald stressed that the steel industry's total labor bill is less now—with considerably more steel production—than it was in years past—some 8 per cent less, per ton of finished steel, than a decade ago.

"And there are thousands upon thousands fewer steelworkers in the mills today producing more steel and better steel than ever before," he said. "Does that look like featherbedding?"

"As physical effort decreases, mental effort increases. This is not to say there doesn't still exist a great deal of physical effort — sweat and hard work. Innumerable improvements have been initiated by the workers," he said. "We are not loafers. We work hard. As partners in the enterprise we have something coming. We intend to get it."

How long will the steel strike last?

McDonald, who has had to cancel plans to accompany Richard M. Nixon on the vice president's current tour of the Soviet Union, said the answer is up to the industry.

"We want our people off the bricks and back at their jobs as soon as possible," he said.

Vema and three other research ships were cruising the Atlantic north of Puerto Rico, looking for a site for the Mohole, the miles-deep hole that is to be drilled through the earth's crust beneath the sea. Knowledge of water conditions is indispensable to the Mohole project.

Moreover, ocean research ships send down thermometers and bottles wherever they go. For water samples and temperature measurements provide clues to one of the most important and most mysterious regions on earth—the region below the surface of the sea.

Oceans cover more than 70 per cent of the earth's surface and contain an almost inconceivably vast mass of water—over 320 million cubic miles of it. Hidden within this huge "inner space" is more life than exists on land—much of it still unknown.

Hidden in the "inner space," too, are currents mightier than hundreds of Mississippis, transporting tropical warmth to one shore and chilling cold to another. Recent studies have even connected the oceans with the Ice Ages. Warm Atlantic currents helped bring the glaciers that buried the continents by melting the arctic ice and converting dry arctic winds to wet, snow-bearing ones.

Oceanographers probe many aspects of the sea simultaneously. Almost all research ships, for example, are constantly on the lookout for new species of marine life.

Early on its present voyage, Vema went fishing for a "sea monster"—the adult form of a recently discovered outside eel larva, whose adult form could easily be of sea monster size. No monster was caught, though something of great size and strength struck and straightened out the heavy six-inch iron hook Vema had put down.

And Vema's biology trawl did bring back, off Central America, five specimens of a marine worm belonging to a family thought extinct for 300 million years.

Over the decades, analysis has shown that the temperature, salt content and several other properties of particular masses of ocean water are remarkably constant.

As a result, ocean researchers have been able to work out the main patterns of ocean water flow. Warm water flows along the surface of the ocean from the equator to the poles. Cold water flows back again down below, near the bottom.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY MEYERS

Children Learn Best When Happy

Over the years, I have pointed out, in this column, that the baby tends to make most progress in learning, especially at walking and talking, when he feels happy, especially toward the mother or other persons he is with. When angry and out of sorts, he may kick and strike, repeating old patterns of motion or just sit and howl. It's when he feels good that he makes new ventures at walking. When he cries, he may repeat a narrow repertoire of sounds he has made before, but it's when he's happy that he keeps adding new sounds, as in his coos and babbles. The first sound the baby makes is crying. But during the first few weeks he also begins to make comfort sounds through his pleasure over taking food. As more weeks and months go by these comfort sounds increase in coos and babbles.

By Garry Meyers

FLORA RHETA Shreiber, in her current book "Your Child's Speech" (Putnam) makes much of the baby's comfort sounds in his early speech development.

"Babbling is a happy, spontaneous utterance during which the infant forms many, many sounds at random, many more than he will ever use once he actually talks. In the course of his babbling he forms all the vowels and consonants of which adult language is comprised — not only of his own language but of other languages as well."

Then comes the time between five and nine months of age, when the baby repeats some of the sounds he has made at random, which, presumably, he likes most. He may seem to make almost endless repetitions consisting of the same sounds used as two, three or more syllables — da-da-da-da-da or ma-ma-ma-ma-ma.

HIS PARENTS, supposing he is saying Dada or Mama, imitate him. By and by this infant may be saying these words with meaning. So his parents may say, after the baby, other words he had at random innocently uttered and connected with purpose later.

Surely this becomes an easy step to deliberate imitations by this little child of all sorts of sounds he hears and likes. The more he likes the person from which a sound comes, the more ready he is to imitate it.

The moral for Mother and Father is obvious. Parents should not suppose, however, that letting the baby and young child always have what he wants and always doing as he pleases will guarantee his happiness and fondness for them.

My bulletins, "Love and Restraint" and "The Young Child's Speech," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Weekend Offers Diet Challenge

Keep your slimming rhythm this week-end. Here is a challenge to help you stay on the beam. When tempted to say, "just this once won't matter," gaily switch to "No, thank you!" By taking that positive attitude, you are saying a resounding "yes" to a shapely figure. Psychologists explain that every time you make an exception, you lose ground and go back nearly to where you started. Don't break the rhythm.

Ida Jean Kain

A slim girl who had been imprisoned in 40 excess pounds and a size 20½ is now set free. The sheer joy of living, expressed in her triumphant letter, will inspire you. She wrote:

"Buying new clothes in size 16 is a wonderful adventure - wearing them is even more fun. It's hard to remember the cream pie you turned down when you are hearing compliments on how much younger you look. It's wonderful, too, to get used to looking at a slender you who stands tall, rather than a fatty who slumped to try to minimize her size.

To be able to run lightly upstairs without huffing and puffing is a joy. But the greatest and most exciting part is the new sense of well being. Joints are no longer swollen and puffy, and there is pleasure in every motion, after the burden of weight is lifted."

McDonald Sees Strike End When 'We Get Fair Split'

By NORMAN WALKER

NEW YORK (AP) —The steel strike, says the man directing the walkout, won't end until companies agree to a fair split of increased profits with their half-million workers.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, thumbed pages of a newspaper to a short inside article saying a small steel firm had netted almost as much profit in six months this year as the company's highest full-year earnings record.

"It's fantastic," said McDonald. "Wait until the big steel companies file their profits reports next week. You'll see. They're going to have to share that money with us.

"It has always happened that way. And we intend to see it continues."

McDonald's views were as fixed and unyielding on the union side as were those expressed for the industry earlier to the same interviewer by Chairman Roger Blough of the United States Steel Corp.

Talks with the two men, equally firm in their stands in the titanic labor-management clash that has shut down most of the nation's vast steel industry, pinpointed the issues.

The industry is dead set against any new net labor cost increase. The union says the workers deserve—and are going to get—higher pay and companion benefits.

McDonald said the industry is trying to cut its work force, whereas steel employment should be increasing to meet the expanding metal needs of America and countries abroad.

"We are being pictured by the industry as opposing progress and efficiency," McDonald said. "I repeat what I've said: the claim is as phony as a seven-dollar bill. The industry's whole position is based on misrepresentation and distortion of the facts."

The union, said this dapper, well-tailored, prematurely gray union boss, looking for all the world like a top industry executive, has never opposed automation or technical progress.

McDonald stressed that the steel industry's total labor bill is less now—with considerably more steel production—than it was in years past—some 8 per cent less, per ton of finished steel, than a decade ago.

"And there are thousands upon thousands fewer steelworkers in the mills today producing more steel and better steel than ever before," he said. "Does that look like featherbedding?"

"As physical effort decreases, mental effort increases. This is not to say there doesn't still exist a great deal of physical effort — sweat and hard work. Innumerable improvements have been initiated by the workers," he said. "We are not loafers. We work hard. As partners in the enterprise we have something coming. We intend to get it."

How long will the steel strike last?

McDonald, who has had to cancel plans to accompany Richard M. Nixon on the vice president's current tour of the Soviet Union, said the answer is up to the industry.

"We want our people off the bricks and back at their jobs as soon as possible," he said.

Indian Chief Is Still Bagging Ducks, Geese

The chief's Chesapeake retriever tripped over his gun and the discharge almost severed the Indian's right wrist. It looked like the end of 50 years of hunting for the chief, who used that right hand to pull the trigger of his gun. He didn't think he could learn to shoot from his left shoulder. But with an ingenious device on the forearm he can now pull the trigger with his left hand.

Rochester Laces Marlins By 12-3

By The Associated Press

The Miami Marlins probably never knew what hit them Thursday night during their 12-3 thumping by the Rochester Red Wings in the International League. They couldn't see the Wings' "ultimate" weapon.

It didn't have a place in the lineup, either. Each Rochester player took a shot of vitamin B-12 before the game and found so much health - giving energy that they came out of a batting slump with 13 hits against three Miami pitchers.

The victory moved the Wings into a third place tie with the Montreal Royals which lost to Richmond 5-4. Richmond moved into a tie with Havana for fifth place as the Sugar Kings downed league-leading Buffalo 2-1. Columbus and Toronto, tied for seventh place, played a 4-4 tie, called after seven innings because of rain.

Toronto scored three unearned runs on Jim King's homer in the sixth inning to tie Columbus 4-4 before the rains came. Nino Escalera homered for the Jets, his seventh.

Unwelcome Passenger Found Aboard Plane

Seren figures it crawled aboard when the plane was in Mexico.

Baby Bunnies Have Longer Life With Him

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Baby cottontail rabbits who want to live to a leisurely old age are welcome in the hutches of biologist Rexford D. Lord.

Lord says rabbits in the wild live about five to six months. The longest he has kept a cottontail alive in captivity is 30 months.

Pastrano Faces Johnson Tonight In Fight On TV

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —Willie Pastrano, who never has been knocked off his feet, takes on Alonzo Johnson tonight in a heavyweight 10-rounder which is a must for both fighters.

The National Boxing Assn. ranks Johnson seventh. The NBA has Pastrano unranked but Ring magazine rates him eighth.

The nimble Pastrano needs to win to remain a contender. Johnson has won 12 in a row and needs the fight to continue his fistic rise.

Johnson, whose home is in Braddock, Pa., has won 17 of 18 fights. Pastrano, of Miami, has a 48-7-5 record.

The fight will be scored on the 5-point per round system, and will be televised nationally (NBC).

Josedale Sky Chief Wins Hamilton Pace

Bonny Willow led through most of the mile but Josedale Sky Chief nosed out in front in the stretch to win in the slow time of 2:21 2-5. He paid $10.60, $6.80 and $3.80. Bonny Willow paid $6.00 and $4.20.

Waller, Rams Back, Won't Play This Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Halfback Ron Waller will not play with the Los Angeles Rams this season.

Waller notified the Rams' office Thursday that he will remain out of football this year, hoping to heal shoulder and knee injuries that plagued him last year. Waller, former Maryland star, was all-pro in his freshman year in 1955.

'Beef' On Hand At 49ers' Camp

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — When the San Francisco 49ers list a 235-pound football player as a "smaller hopeful" one gets an idea of the beef available at their rookie camp that opens here Saturday.

No less than eight of the ex-collegians top the scales at 240 or more and two more of that general poundage will report after the All-Star Game in Chicago.

Monte Clark, 6-6, 260, Southern California; Henry Schmidt, 6-4, 260, Trinity; George Shirkey, 6-4, 250, Austin; Ted Stahura, 6-0, 250, Pittsburg State; Hogan Wharton, 6-2, 245, Houston; Don Rogers, 6-2, 245, South Carolina; Bill Kortuz, 6-2, 255, Dayton; and Wally Bavaro, 6-4, 240, Holy Cross.

After the All-Stars play, Dan James, 6-2 and 245 from Ohio State, and Frank Geremia, 6-3, 245, Notre Dame, join the fun here.

Listed as the "smaller hopefuls" were Jack Bolton, 6-3, 235 from Puget Sound; Bob Carter, 6-3, 230, Denver; and Vel Heckman, 6-0, 230, Florida.

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP)—Trader Horn, who'll represent the United States in the international trot Aug. 1 at Roosevelt Raceway, easily won the $50,000 national championship trot at Yonkers Raceway Thursday night.

Taking the lead with nearly a half-mile to go, the 7 - year-old son of Worthy Boy stepped off the mile in 2:03 3-5 and finished 1½ lengths in front of Something Special. Mr. Saunders was third and Silver Song fourth in the field of eight.

Bill Haughton drove the speedy trotter, owned by Arthur and Jane Nardin of Miami Bach, Fa., in his final race before meeting the best of six other countries in the mile and one-half international. As the favorite he paid $3.20 for $2.

The victory boosted Trader Horn's lifetime earnings to $310,-187. Only four other trotters ever won more than $300,000. One of them is Darn Safe, No. 1 money winning trotter with earnings of $342,387. Darn Safe wound up last as Ann Dares finished fifth, Steamin' Demon sixth and Lumber Boy eighth.

Boy Sticks Out Tongue And Pet Turtle Bites It

Tommy's mother struggled five minutes to pull the pet loose then rushed the boy to the hospital where a small gash on his tongue was treated.

Indian Chief Is Still Bagging Ducks, Geese

The chief's Chesapeake retriever tripped over his gun and the discharge almost severed the Indian's right wrist. It looked like the end of 50 years of hunting for the chief, who used that right hand to pull the trigger of his gun. He didn't think he could learn to shoot from his left shoulder. But with an ingenious device on the forearm he can now pull the trigger with his left hand.

Rochester Laces Marlins By 12-3

By The Associated Press

The Miami Marlins probably never knew what hit them Thursday night during their 12-3 thumping by the Rochester Red Wings in the International League. They couldn't see the Wings' "ultimate" weapon.

It didn't have a place in the lineup, either. Each Rochester player took a shot of vitamin B-12 before the game and found so much health - giving energy that they came out of a batting slump with 13 hits against three Miami pitchers.

The victory moved the Wings into a third place tie with the Montreal Royals which lost to Richmond 5-4. Richmond moved into a tie with Havana for fifth place as the Sugar Kings downed league-leading Buffalo 2-1. Columbus and Toronto, tied for seventh place, played a 4-4 tie, called after seven innings because of rain.

Toronto scored three unearned runs on Jim King's homer in the sixth inning to tie Columbus 4-4 before the rains came. Nino Escalera homered for the Jets, his seventh.

Unwelcome Passenger Found Aboard Plane

Airport mechanics — wearing gloves — dismantled the panel and gingerly lifted out an 18-inch snake, later identified as an Anaconda.

Seren figures it crawled aboard when the plane was in Mexico.

Baby Bunnies Have Longer Life With Him

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Baby cottontail rabbits who want to live to a leisurely old age are welcome in the hutches of biologist Rexford D. Lord.

Lord says rabbits in the wild live about five to six months. The longest he has kept a cottontail alive in captivity is 30 months.

Pastrano Faces Johnson Tonight In Fight On TV

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —Willie Pastrano, who never has been knocked off his feet, takes on Alonzo Johnson tonight in a heavyweight 10-rounder which is a must for both fighters.

The National Boxing Assn. ranks Johnson seventh. The NBA has Pastrano unranked but Ring magazine rates him eighth.

The nimble Pastrano needs to win to remain a contender. Johnson has won 12 in a row and needs the fight to continue his fistic rise.

Pastrano originally was scheduled to meet Alex Miteff, but Miteff was ailing.

Johnson, whose home is in Braddock, Pa., has won 17 of 18 fights. Pastrano, of Miami, has a 48-7-5 record.

The fight will be scored on the 5-point per round system, and will be televised nationally (NBC).

Josedale Sky Chief Wins Hamilton Pace

Bonny Willow led through most of the mile but Josedale Sky Chief nosed out in front in the stretch to win in the slow time of 2:21 2-5. He paid $10.60, $6.80 and $3.80. Bonny Willow paid $6.00 and $4.20.

Darnelwyn in the first race and Hi Eanny in the second combined for a daily double payoff of $56.60.

Waller, Rams Back, Won't Play This Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Halfback Ron Waller will not play with the Los Angeles Rams this season.

Waller notified the Rams' office Thursday that he will remain out of football this year, hoping to heal shoulder and knee injuries that plagued him last year. Waller, former Maryland star, was all-pro in his freshman year in 1955.

'Beef' On Hand At 49ers' Camp

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — When the San Francisco 49ers list a 235-pound football player as a "smaller hopeful" one gets an idea of the beef available at their rookie camp that opens here Saturday.

No less than eight of the ex-collegians top the scales at 240 or more and two more of that general poundage will report after the All-Star Game in Chicago.

Which proves the 49ers seek bulwarks for their forward walls, offense and defense, for the National Football League campaign.

Monte Clark, 6-6, 260, Southern California; Henry Schmidt, 6-4, 260, Trinity; George Shirkey, 6-4, 250, Austin; Ted Stahura, 6-0, 250, Pittsburg State; Hogan Wharton, 6-2, 245, Houston; Don Rogers, 6-2, 245, South Carolina; Bill Kortuz, 6-2, 255, Dayton; and Wally Bavaro, 6-4, 240, Holy Cross.

After the All-Stars play, Dan James, 6-2 and 245 from Ohio State, and Frank Geremia, 6-3, 245, Notre Dame, join the fun here.

Listed as the "smaller hopefuls" were Jack Bolton, 6-3, 235 from Puget Sound; Bob Carter, 6-3, 230, Denver; and Vel Heckman, 6-0, 230, Florida.

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP)—Trader Horn, who'll represent the United States in the international trot Aug. 1 at Roosevelt Raceway, easily won the $50,000 national championship trot at Yonkers Raceway Thursday night.

Bill Haughton drove the speedy trotter, owned by Arthur and Jane Nardin of Miami Bach, Fa., in his final race before meeting the best of six other countries in the mile and one-half international. As the favorite he paid $3.20 for $2.

The victory boosted Trader Horn's lifetime earnings to $310,-187. Only four other trotters ever won more than $300,000. One of them is Darn Safe, No. 1 money winning trotter with earnings of $342,387. Darn Safe wound up last as Ann Dares finished fifth, Steamin' Demon sixth and Lumber Boy eighth.

Boy Sticks Out Tongue And Pet Turtle Bites It

Tommy's mother struggled five minutes to pull the pet loose then rushed the boy to the hospital where a small gash on his tongue was treated.

Nixon, Russian Premier Have 'Friendly Meeting'

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had a friendly meeting in the Kremlin today. The atmosphere was reported warm in contrast to the chilly reception for Nixon on his arrival Thursday.

They let photographers and reporters in for the first part of the meeting. Nixon handed Khrushchev a letter of greeting from President Eisenhower.

After the visit the two left at once for a joint inspection of the U.S. exhibition Nixon will open later in the day. There they got into an amiable but firm argument on press freedom.

It was not known whether Khrushchev brought up with Nixon the question of U.S. observance of "Captive Nations' Week." This had brought an angry outburst from the Soviet premier at a public Polish friendship meeting Thursday as Nixon was arriving.

After being informed of Nixon's arrival, Khrushchev got up from his chair at the Polish rally and invited Nixon to come see a group of "enslaved people," the subject of "Captive Nations' Week."

But the weather was warm today and evidently the meeting in the Kremlin was warm. It is expected there will be a prolonged session between the two men Saturday.

Before meeting with Khrushchev, Nixon called on President Klementi Voroshilov. Normally talks with Voroshilov are largely protocol since he has almost nothing to do with the administration of the country.

As photographers and newsmen were ushered in ahead of Nixon for his meeting with Khrushchev, they found the premier back of his desk wearing a light grey summer suit. He was pacing up and down with his hands clasped behind him.

Their talks before about 30 reporters and cameramen in the Kremlin were quite friendly. As long as the reporters were there they consisted largely of light exchanges.

When Nixon entered the big wood-paneled room, Khrushchev came forward and extended his hand. Nixon repeated a couple of words of Russian as a greeting and Khrushchev replied:

"You have learned much Russian."

Khrushchev: "This is our first meeting. I welcome you. I hear you have been to the market place."

As the two were posing before equipment showing the quick playback of recordings, they got into an argument over Nixon's statement that "there must be a free exchange of ideas."

Khrushchev responded with a remark touching on the reporting of his speeches on his recent Polish tour. Nixon told Khrushchev he was certain the speeches of Khrushchev as well as the talks of First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov on his U.S. tour were fully reported in the West.

Khrushchev said: "Then what about this tape?" He was referring to the tape recording.

"If it is shown in the United States it will be shown in English and I would like a guarantee that there will be a full translation of my remarks," Khrushchev said with a smile.

Nixon said there would be, and added his hopes that all of his own remarks in the Soviet Union would be given with full translations here. Nixon's speech on his arrival — a call for friendship — was carried in full by Moscow's Press and Radio.

Nixon and Khrushchev were accompanied through the fair by Voroshilov and two vice premiers, Kozlov and Anastas Mikoyan. These three stood silently to one side during the eight-minute exchange between Khrushchev and Nixon.

Nixon was accompanied to the Kremlin by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the American President's brother, and Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson.

The exhibition halls still showed signs of the frantic effort to finish in time. Most of the shelves were filled, but some goods and boxes were still piled up waiting to be placed.

Visitors to the fair grounds found themselves walking by a huge red banner saying "Fulfill the Seven-Year Plan." The banner was close to the fair entrance, at a point by which most guests had to walk.

The Russians have set up their own fair across the city from the American exhibition in Sokolniki Park. They make it quite clear that they expect to offer at least as fine a show as the Americans.

Both papers gave identical accounts of the vice president's arrival at Vnukovo Airport and identical biographies of the visitor. The account consisted mostly of Nixon's arrival speech and the welcome by First Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov.

Nixon and his wife tried out their customary friendly, hand-shaking approach on the Russian man in the street Thursday afternoon, but the response was not overwhelming.

Woman, Lover Are Convicted In Strangling Sons

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Wanda Brogdon and her lover Archie Merriam were convicted Thursday night of first-degree murder for strangling her two sons.

They withdrew pleas of insanity and pleaded innocent of the slaying of David, 3, and Virgil Brogdon Jr., 5, the night of May 2-3 in the mountains east of here.

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had a friendly meeting in the Kremlin today. The atmosphere was reported warm in contrast to the chilly reception for Nixon on his arrival Thursday.

They let photographers and reporters in for the first part of the meeting. Nixon handed Khrushchev a letter of greeting from President Eisenhower.

After the visit the two left at once for a joint inspection of the U.S. exhibition Nixon will open later in the day. There they got into an amiable but firm argument on press freedom.

Shortly before their arrival, Soviet officials arrived at the exhibition and threw out books they considered objectionable in the American library.

It was not known whether Khrushchev brought up with Nixon the question of U.S. observance of "Captive Nations' Week." This had brought an angry outburst from the Soviet premier at a public Polish friendship meeting Thursday as Nixon was arriving.

After being informed of Nixon's arrival, Khrushchev got up from his chair at the Polish rally and invited Nixon to come see a group of "enslaved people," the subject of "Captive Nations' Week."

But the weather was warm today and evidently the meeting in the Kremlin was warm. It is expected there will be a prolonged session between the two men Saturday.

Before meeting with Khrushchev, Nixon called on President Klementi Voroshilov. Normally talks with Voroshilov are largely protocol since he has almost nothing to do with the administration of the country.

As photographers and newsmen were ushered in ahead of Nixon for his meeting with Khrushchev, they found the premier back of his desk wearing a light grey summer suit. He was pacing up and down with his hands clasped behind him.

Their talks before about 30 reporters and cameramen in the Kremlin were quite friendly. As long as the reporters were there they consisted largely of light exchanges.

When Nixon entered the big wood-paneled room, Khrushchev came forward and extended his hand. Nixon repeated a couple of words of Russian as a greeting and Khrushchev replied:

"You have learned much Russian."

"Just this much," said Nixon indicating a small amount with two slightly separated fingers.

Khrushchev: "This is our first meeting. I welcome you. I hear you have been to the market place."

Nixon and his wife went for a stroll Thursday, visited a large food store and talked with the people.

As the two were posing before equipment showing the quick playback of recordings, they got into an argument over Nixon's statement that "there must be a free exchange of ideas."

Khrushchev responded with a remark touching on the reporting of his speeches on his recent Polish tour. Nixon told Khrushchev he was certain the speeches of Khrushchev as well as the talks of First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov on his U.S. tour were fully reported in the West.

Khrushchev said: "Then what about this tape?" He was referring to the tape recording.

"If it is shown in the United States it will be shown in English and I would like a guarantee that there will be a full translation of my remarks," Khrushchev said with a smile.

Nixon said there would be, and added his hopes that all of his own remarks in the Soviet Union would be given with full translations here. Nixon's speech on his arrival — a call for friendship — was carried in full by Moscow's Press and Radio.

Nixon and Khrushchev were accompanied through the fair by Voroshilov and two vice premiers, Kozlov and Anastas Mikoyan. These three stood silently to one side during the eight-minute exchange between Khrushchev and Nixon.

About 150 photographers and newsmen accompanied them on their tour through the fair, often impeding their movements, but they took it in good spirits.

Nixon was accompanied to the Kremlin by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the American President's brother, and Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson.

The exhibition halls still showed signs of the frantic effort to finish in time. Most of the shelves were filled, but some goods and boxes were still piled up waiting to be placed.

Visitors to the fair grounds found themselves walking by a huge red banner saying "Fulfill the Seven-Year Plan." The banner was close to the fair entrance, at a point by which most guests had to walk.

The Russians have set up their own fair across the city from the American exhibition in Sokolniki Park. They make it quite clear that they expect to offer at least as fine a show as the Americans.

Nixon was third-page news in Moscow's two leading newspapers, Pravda, the Communist party organ, and Izvestia, the government newspaper.

Both papers gave identical accounts of the vice president's arrival at Vnukovo Airport and identical biographies of the visitor. The account consisted mostly of Nixon's arrival speech and the welcome by First Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov.

Nixon and his wife tried out their customary friendly, hand-shaking approach on the Russian man in the street Thursday afternoon, but the response was not overwhelming.

Woman, Lover Are Convicted In Strangling Sons

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Wanda Brogdon and her lover Archie Merriam were convicted Thursday night of first-degree murder for strangling her two sons.

They face death in the gas chamber or life imprisonment.

Merriam, 36, had testified that Mrs. Brogdon, 33, showed him how to strangle the boys. Mrs. Brogdon denied it.

They withdrew pleas of insanity and pleaded innocent of the slaying of David, 3, and Virgil Brogdon Jr., 5, the night of May 2-3 in the mountains east of here.
